Officials say Dist. 34 loses if unit passes

MARY FOLEY

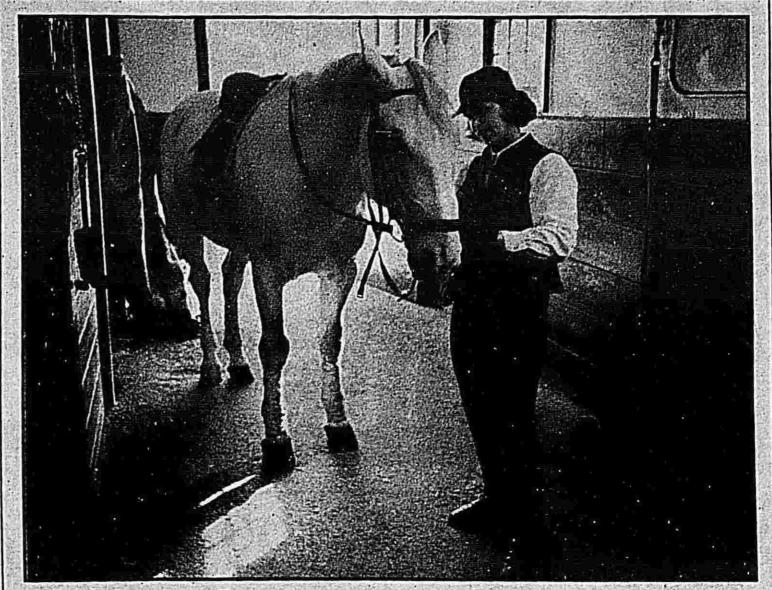

Staff Reporter

A large crowd, consisting mostly of Antioch residents, came to a meeting to learn the impact a Lake Villa unit school district would have on Antioch District 34.

The group included Antioch village and township officials, representatives of Better Education Sensible Taxes (BEST), along with concerned parents and voters. In addition, there were several unit district proponents. The meeting was held as part of the regular school board meeting.

An information packet was distributed to all those attending the meeting, and the presentation reviewed the material. Unit district proponents presented their side during the public comments section of the meeting.

Fox Waterway candidate knocked off ballot

TINA SWIECH

Staff Reporter

Lake County candidates for Fox Waterway Agency director dropped from three to two when petitions were reviewed by the State Board of Elections.

Candidate James Mitchell of Lindenhurst filed the objections with the State Board of Elections.

Mitchell contended incumbent Ron Baker and former director Roy Gundelach had errors in their petitions that could disqualify them

King Arthur Alive

On Tuesday, all three men attended a hearing at the Election Board's office in Chicago, where objections against Baker were dropped, but the objections filed by Mitchell against Gundelach were sustained. Gundelach's name won't appear on the ballot.

Baker said he is happy about the ruling and felt allegations against him were all petty. Some of the petition signers wrote the name of the state where the county should have been and one of his petition circulators became divorced, so her name on the petition was not that on her voter registration card.

Fifty-nine signatures on Baker's petition were lost but he still had enough with 249. Two-hundred signatures for director candidate is the minimum needed.

Gundelach's petitions showed people not registered and some not in the district, said Mitchell.

Mitchell plans to continue trying to knock Baker off the ballot.

The newcomer candidate said he more than likely plans to seek a judicial review of the matter and could end up suing the State Board of Elections and the judicial court.

Mitchell said one of Baker's circulators used the wrong name and that did not come up with the board of elections.

Agreeing what Baker did was not fraudulent, Mitchell did say his petitions were "sloppy" and he said if you're careless, then you should pay.

"If I bump him off the ballot, then so what? I didn't make the rules," said Mitchell. And he said if he fights it, he could get his wish before the election April 4. He has 10 days to file.

Mitchell said he may have learned his craft from none other than State Representative Bob Churchill of the 62nd district.

In 1992 Churchill challenged Mitchell's petitions for state representative and won.

Mitchell said, in a previous interview, he has never been to one Agency meeting, but plans to attend. He also said he doesn't know anyone on the Agency board, nor is he a boater.

Baker only has one regret. That is not checking out Mitchell's petition to see if it's correctly put together. The incumbent candidate said he doesn't usually think of things like that, because he trusts people.

A "mud-slinger," is how Baker described his competitor.

Village votes to accept new park

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The Village of Antioch has voted to accept the dedication of 5.3 acres of property from Developer Al Little, for the Windmill Creek Park. The acceptance will be final after a title search.

"We received a request from Mr. Little to take the Windmill Creek dedication," said Village Administrator Tim Wells. However, he noted some concern with the order of construction of the phases of Windmill Creek may not be around the park when the park is developed.

"Phase II may not be Phase II," explained

The Park Board does not intend to develop the park until the year 1998. As a result, the board agreed to hold back $22,709 in developer fees if it becomes necessary to build an access road. An access road could be needed if the proposed additional development is delayed for some reason.

"This is the worst case scenario," said Wells. "The park board is not ready to develop the park. We hope to use the street network."

The money will be placed in a separate certificate of deposit in order to earn interest. The interest may be needed if road construction costs increase.

Little will receive the portion of the developer fees offset by the park donation, with the exception of the accessway money, when the village has title to the park property.

Hanson focuses on retailers, teens

resident of Antioch and a graduate of Antioch Community High

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Larry Hanson, 35, is running for a trustee spot on the Antioch Village Board. Three seats are up for grabs this April.

Hanson was a trustee in the village from 1989 to 1993. He gave up his seat when he made an unsuccessful bid for mayor.

"I took a leave of absence," he quipped. "It gave me two years to analyze the condition of the village. I felt that the four years I was on the board, I did a good job.

Hanson believes his positionas a retailer will provide a greater balance on the board. "I can see the problems of the retailers," Hanson explains. "It really helps to have a retailer on the board. As we talk about going after new businesses and new industry, we have to keep in mind the businesses that are already here. Are they really happy?"

After 19 years at BJ's Fashions for Men, in Antioch, Hanson does have his finger on the pulse of existing retailers. He is a life-long

School. "I am here everyday," said Hanson. "I can see the problems on a day to day basis."

/ Hanson, if elected, also hopes to increase village programming of teen activities. He believes more programs for young adults will lead to a greater commitment and community spirit.

"If we made teens feel as important as gangs make them feel, maybe we wouldn't have the problems that we do have,".
Harson said. He notes that there are a number of village programs for young children and adults, but a limited number of programs for teens.

Rotary hosts SEDOL director

MARY FOLEY Staff Reporter

John Anderson, superintendent of the Special Education District Of Lake County (SEDOL) was the key speaker last week at the Rotary Club luncheon. Anderson showed a 15 minute video and then answered questions.

SEDOL is a special education joint agreement organized to provide cooperative program planning, instructional planning, related services and inservice training to assure an appropriate education for children with disabilities. Antioch District 34, Grass Lake School, Emmons School and Antioch Community High School all participate in SEDOL.

Funding for SEDOL is from local member school districts, state reimbursement programs, and federal grants. The local member districts share the majority of costs, based on the number of students enrolled in special classes.

Screening for SEDOL enrollment is generally done when a child is between 3 and 5 years old. Dates for the screenings are published in the newspapers and school newsletters. Any parent who suspects their child may have a disability are encouraged to call the local elementary school district to arrange for a screening. In addition, teachers and school staff may refer a child to the program for evalua-

Some of the support services of SEDOL include psychology, social work, speech and language, prevocational, occupational and physical therapy and nursing services. The amount of services a child receives is dependent on the needs of that child.

SEDOL has various locations including Central High School, Gages Lake School, Lake Diagnostic Center, Laremont School, Parent Infant Center, Powers Center of the Hearing Impaired and the Sally Potter School. For more information call 623-0021.

Helander, Gonwa stand by decision

ALEC JUNGE

Staff Reporter

The Lake County Clerk and the regional superintendent feel they have acted properly in deciding how votes will be counted in the Lake Villa unit school district issue despite a lawsuit by Antioch Elementary School District.

County Clerk Willard Helander and Ed Gonwa, regional superintendent, feel they have ruled as prescribed by the letter of the law. On the other hand, Antioch Elementary School Board feels its residents are being disenfranchised by the decision to include only the Lake Villa portion to count for all of the district.

In essence, 19 percent of District 34 voters will be voting as a district on whether there should be a Lake Villa unit district. The other 81 percent will vote on the issue, but they will be counted only on the Antioch High School ballot.

"We followed the letter of the law," Helander said. "The decision was correct and complete."

Helander said the office used information from the assessment division to determine the assessed valuation compared to the average daily attendance provided by the district. She said the assessed valuation number was changed after the assessment division reviewed it.

Also, the State Board of Education was consulted as well as the State's Attorney's office before the decision was made.

Gonwa sald his decision was based on school code. He said the disparity between the total assessed valuation compared with the average daily attendance doesn't match the 8 percent rule of section 11 of the school code.

It was a good opinion based on the consultation with the State Board of Education and with State's Attorney's office," Gonwa

Voting on whether there will be a unit district are all voters who reside in Antioch and Grayslake high school districts and Lake Villa Elementary and Millburn Elementary districts.

Only residents who live in the proposed unit district boundary can vote in Grant High School District. Only those in the proposed unit district will be counted for Antioch Elementary District.

The proposed unit school would comprise most of Lake Villa Township in a K-12 district. Voters in all six districts must approve the unit district for it to exist.

The building bond issue for $39.5 will be voted on by residents in the unit district boundary. They will also choose a school board to represent them.

Helander said the office has the software necessary to tabulate all of Antioch Elementary District if the Lake County Circuit Court decided in favor of Antioch. She said her office is neutral on the issue of Antioch Elementary voting.

Antioch Elementary Superintendent Dr. Daniel Burke feels the district voters should be counted considering the district stands to lose $5 million in assets. The suit will not stop the issue from reaching the April, 4 ballot.

The State's Attorney's office will represent Gonwa and Helander. The court date is yet to be announced.

Chess program a hit at St. Peter

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The new St. Peter School chess program appears to be a great hit with students of all ages. The program, which is sponsored by the St. Peter Family Association and funded by donations by the band Grease, provides instruction and competition for all levels of players.

"It teaches them to logically think," said Julianne Thain, a school board member. "Chess crosses the barriers of all the subjects."

The program is available to all students of St. Peter, from kindergarten to eighth grade. Instruction is available for those students who have never played the game. Presently, there are five parent volprogram. "They sit down and teach them the basics," said Thain.

At each session, students are permitted to play the opponent of their choice. After the first game, older students play the younger, less experienced students, helping them with strategy and piece movement.

"The game of chess helps with logical thinking, planning, communication and math/spatial concepts," explains Thain.

Program volunteers hope to unteers for the 23 children in the . have a booklet prepared soon which will include some basic information about the game. In addition, they are planning to hold a "celebrity" match, pairing "celebrity" adults in the community with students.

Antioch man busted again

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

It was the second time around for John Hapkowsky, 40, of Plum Tree Lane in Antioch. Hapkowsky was once again arrested in his home and charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance.

It was only last month when Hapkowsky was arrested for similar charges when officers executed a search warrant at his home. This time, however, Hapkowsky's wife, Maria, was present and arrested right along with him.

"He had a small amount of cocaine," said Mark Rasmussen, deputy director of the Lake County Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG). "We were hoping he would have more."

The arrests took place on Feb. 17 when Lake County Sheriff's Department, MEG, and Antioch . Police Department officers executed a warrant at 7:30 p.m. Police found enough cocaine to charge the Hapkowskys with unlawful possession of a controlled substance.

According to Rasmussen, the Hapkowskys do have children, although he believes the kids to be in their late teens or older.

Lieutenant Charles Watkins of the Antioch Police Department said the arrests were the result of an "ongoing investigation." MEG, the Antioch Police Department and the Sheriff's Department have worked together on numerous drug cases recently.

Beckman-Sekili

Amy Marie Beckman and Aydin A. Sekili of Chicago were married October 1, 1994, at West Chicago Bible Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Howard Westlund.

The bride is the daughter of Marvin and Sharon Beckman of Antioch. She is a 1985 graduate of West Chicago High School, and has a bachelor's degree and a master's degree from Wheaton College. She is employed as an editor at Chicago Title and Trust.

The groom is the son of Tugrul and Yuksel Sekili of Northbrook. He is a 1986 graduate of Glenbrook North High School. He has a bachelor's degree from Indiana University, and is attending Loyola University where he is working toward a master's in business administration. He is employed at Baxter Health Care as a financial analyst.

The matron of honor was Cheryl Terdina. Bridesmaids were Michelle Alwan, Kathleen Beckman and Jill Beckman. Melissa Beckman was flower girl.

The best man was Dr. Selim Sekili. Groomsmen were Marvin Beckman Jr., Carl Beckman and Eric Beckman. Kevin Martinez and Kurt Myers were the ushers.

A reception for the newlywed couple was held at St. Andrews Country Club in West Chicago, followed by a honeymoon trip to St. Lucia. The couple has made their home in Chicago.

New Arrival

Vincent Ryan Engel

A son, Vincent Ryan, was born Jan. 16 at Lake Forest Hospital to Julian and Fred Engel of Antioch. He has two brothers Ryan, 7 and Mitchell 4 and a sister, Amanda, 6. Grandparents are Geri Mackowski of Milwaukee, Wis., Lorraine and Fred Engel, Sr. of Vernon Hills. Great grandmothers are Elaine Pudlosky and Therese Minerath.

Young poet in Highlights magazine

Young poet

Ten-year-old (as of Feb. 3)
Brittany Harrison, daughter of
Janet and Ed Harrison of Lake
Villa, recently wrote a beautiful poem. She submitted it to the Highlights Children's Magazine and they liked it so much they decided to publish it in their March issue. I liked it so much, I decided to share it with all of you.
Brittany is a fourth-grade student at Pleviak School in Lake Villa. So now, a beautiful poem by a beautiful, talented young person.

"It Doesn't Matter if I'm Different" is the title. "I may have red hair, you may not. I may have blue eyes, you may not. I may have a green bow and shirt, you may not. Do you see? It does not matter if we are different, we can still be friends."

New baby

Loreen and Dave Robaczewski recently became parents for the second time. Lindsey Marie was born on Jan. 17 and weighed eight pounds, one ounce. She has a big sister at home waiting to teach her the ropes—Brittany, age two and one-half years. Congratulations, everyone!

Moving along

The beautiful new addition to Emmons School is making remarkable progress. The March 1 completion date continues to be a reality. There will be a community open house on Thursday, March 16, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. This will give community members an opportunity to drop by and walk through the addition. A dedication and opening ceremony is also in the works and scheduled for May 9. Above, and beyond these scheduled times, if you are anxious to see the progress, feel free to stop in during the school day to take a tour. Please stop in at the school office first to sign in.

The expansion project at CLCBC is moving along nicely. Once this is completed, more space will be provided for the various church activities. Rev. Donald W. Sweeting is the pastor/teacher, Rick Sisson the youth pastor and Dr. Bruce Ware the pastoral assistant.

Death do us part

My infamous dear friend "Silvia From the City" recently told me that doves mate for life. I told her I thought Canadian geese also did. She indicated she had also heard that to be true. One thing led to the next and we started to analyze what "mate for life" actually meant to geese and doves. We naturally decided there would be no geese or dove divorces.

However, it would definitely be feasible that either the male or female goose or dove may outlive its mate, thus producing widows or widowers in the species. If this should occur, would the mate then stay alone forever or would he or she start looking around for a new mate?

I do not know the answer to any of the above, but once again my strange mind begins to analyze the darnedest things. I'll enter this column tidbit under the heading "Food for Thought," be what it may.

Come on!

In case you didn't notice, this was a mighty lean column. Naturally, it would be if you don't get busy and call in those special news items.

"How do I get something in Hometown Goodies? Do I have to know you personally?"

Absolutely not, all you have to do is have something special to share and then dial 395-5380 and ask for me. Hometown Goodies is a fun column, a special way to keep in touch with your friends and neighbors in the Antioch area. It is about school or sports accomplishments, family or class reunions, special birthdays, new births, kid stories, animal or pet stories, silly bloopers, welcoming new neighbors, school or PTO functions, special fund-raisers, etc.

It's easy-just call!

The Loon Lake Sportsman's Assn.'s Tenth Annual Ice Fishing Derby was held on Feb. 4 and 5 on the Loon Lakes in Antioch. Several fish were caught and those who braved the cold weather had a good time in trying for the big one.

In the children's category for the largest fish, Nicholas Fain won with a 27 1/4-inch northern pike and Michael Ryan won with a 7-inch perch in the panfish class. Other children who caught a prize winning fish were Tim Enright with a 6 1/2-inch bluegill, Patrich Hilbert with a 6 1/4-inch perch, Peter Seibert Jr. caught a 13-inch bullhead and John Craig caught a 6 1/2-inch bluegill.

In the adult category the overall winners were Tom Krueger with a 32-inch muskie, Tom Ingogila caught an 18 1/4-inch walleye, Charles Elmer got a 15 1/4-inch bass and Dan Hanson landed a 10-inch crappie for the panfish prize. Other prize fish caught were Nancy Everet with a 30 1/4-inch northern pike and a 9 1/2-inch crappie, Juan Acevedo caught a 24-inch northern pike, Marsha Irving got a 6 1/4-inch bluegill, Bill Craig caught a 6inch bluegill and Joe McNamera got a 30 1/4-inch muskie. There were also 50 tagged fish released in the Loon Lakes worth $15,000. As hard as the fishermen tried to catch the big one, they came up empty-handed. Better luck next year.

The Loon Lake Sportsman's Assn. also thanks the over 60 sponsors who donated prizes and sponsored tagged fish for this derby.

Shop Antioch The spotlight's on ... Choosey Child

Introducing Choosey Child, Antioch's gift and apparel store just for kids. When Choosey Child opened in June of 1991 in Lake Villa, it was originally half kids' resale and half kids' boutique. They've come a long way since then. Relocating after their first year to downtown Antioch, they gradually began to eliminate the kids' resale department and concentrate on the children's boutique. They have eliminated the resale department completely and now bring to Antioch an upscale children's boutique that offers a selection that appeals to kids, moms and grandmas.

Today you'll find Choosey Child located at 891 Main St. in Antioch. They have blossomed into a wonderful children's boutique, offering a unique selection of apparel for children, sizes preemie through size 14 for girls and preemie through size 7 for boys. Their shower gift and new baby gift selection is outstanding. While browsing through the new baby selection, you'll encounter whimsical hooded baby towels in pastel colors that feature bunnies, cows, ducks, lions and Indians. Coordinate the towel with a hooded "bathbag" and add the matching bib and washcloth for a truly unique gift. They offer a computerized baby shower registry to eliminate the possibility of gift duplication. Moms-to-be are welcome to stop in any time to register, but plan on spending at least 45 minutes—there is so much to see and enjoy.

Fun, fashionable playwear is Rule No.:1 at Choosey Child. They make sure kids enjoy wearing the clothes that Mom picks out. So often Mom will bring home a new outfit and it sits in a closet. Moms are encouraged to bring their children in to try outfits on, but watch out-you might end up going home with more outfits than you bargained for.

Formal wear is an important department at Choosey Child. Whether you are searching for a christening gown that can be passed down for generations, a communion dress that will be cherished forever, an age-appropriate flower girl dress for a wedding, or a "drop dead" pageant dress for a Little Miss Pageant, you'll find a special selection that is tasteful; yet affordable. While searching for merchandise to stock, Choosey Child buyers are meticulous in their quest for the most original, fun, but still affordable apparel they can find. They semi-annual attend Kids' International Fashion Shows in New York each year, always searching for small manufacturers that have the luxury of creating specialized garments and don't produce for the masses. Most items found here aren't found at many other shops, and are never found at a discount outlet. Providing their customer with unique gifts and apparel has become a trademark of Choosey Child. .

Personalized service is a top priority. Free gift wrapping, packing for UPS shipping and custom orders are just a few ways they try to make shopping easier for their customer. They even keep a customer record for grandmas indicating which outfits they have bought and in what size for those grandmas who are blessed with several grandchildren. This makes it easy for Grandma to remember what clothes she's already purchased and enables her to coordinate a new outfit or remember that a certain outfit might be passed down to a little sister or brother. Choosey Child even offers a "Special Delivery Club" discount when a customer is shopping for twins or triplets. This was started by the aunt of triplets who remarked that a discount should be given-it was such a great idea that Choosey Child instantly began a 10 percent discount to anyone who is shopping for twins or triplets.

When browsing through the toy department at Choosey Child, you'll notice that none of the toys require batteries. All toys are "run by imagination." Educational toys are in a big demand, whether for a new baby or a child in grade school. You'll find a diverse selection that might include a puppet in the shape of a preying mantis or a Noah's Ark soft-sculptured playhouse.

The end of February marks their Double the Savings sale, which runs Feb. 23 through the 28. Instead of deducting 33 percent from the price of winter apparel, you'll be encouraged to deduct 33 percent TWICE from the price tag. This is a great way for Mom to shop ahead for next winter and to update their child's wardrobe for the remainder of this season.

Stop by and say hello to Barbara and Steve Porch, owners of Choosey Child. Their children, Bradley (age 11) and Tracey (age 9), are usually on hand to give a kid's perspective and occasionally model an outfit. A new staff addition in 1994 was Stacey Crivello. Stacey has been a wonderful addition to the store-besides being an outgoing and nice person, she allows Barbara the luxury of taking some time away from the shop to spend with her family.

Editor's note: Shop Antioch is a weekly newsletter showcasing Antioch's merchants and retailers. Prepared and written by Barbara Porch of Choosey Child.

Kids join walking club

One's outlook as an individual depends upon their mental and physical fitness. This self-image created at a young age will last throughout the lifetime of the individual. Therefore, positive activities and reinforcements are in constant demand to share the images of our young students.

A topic discussed at a conference for educators was taken a step further this fall, by a teacher at Antioch Lower Grade School, Alice Brown. a third grade teacher, felt that exercise and physical fitness did indeed have a direct bearing on the self-esteem of her students. The catch was how to get this across to her students and how to make it a positive experience for all involved. Thus, the "Walking Club" was established.

Students voluntarily "join" the club by taking part in a walk around the school grounds every day (weather permitting) after their lunch period. Brown determined that a trip twice around the perimeter of the field and the playground measured out to be about one mile of walking. Each member has an index card which gets a hole punched for every day they complete their mile walk. Upon receiving 10 holes punched on their card, their names are then entered on a 10-Mile Chart located in the school.

This club has stirred quite a bit of interest and activity among the students and teachers alike. As Brown puts it, "Walking for exercise is often at the end of my list of things to do and, therefore, often forgotten. So the walking club is to help me, too."

Many of the walkers have taken to walking during their second recess of the day, without the benefit of their cards or chart. The initiative of these students puts a positive mental aspect on a positive physical action that will benefit them for years to come.

Tempers flare as condominium variation expir

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

A discussion about whether or not the variance on a condominium project should be expired drew angry retorts from both the developer, Albert Christensen, and Antioch Village Planning Robert Director Silhan. Christensen wanted the variance extended while Silhan had recommended to the board to recognize the expiration.

The bulk of the problems seemed stem from to. Christensen's inexperience in the procedural requirements of building a condominium. In addition, a war of experts disputed exactly what water detention requirements were applicable.

"I have always been willing to work with them," retorted Silhan after Christensen accused him of cooperating Christensen's engineer, Jim Witt.

The variation, for the property located on 639 Main Street, was initially approved in principal, on March 10, 1994. One of the conditions of the variance was the submission of detailed engineering plans. "That exhibit has not been submitted," said Silhan.

Christensen argued the plans had been submitted. "I have my engineer here and he says they are done," he insisted. He told the board Silhan was unwilling to submit the plans, which had been delivered earlier that morning, to the village engineer.

Silhan fired back, "Excuse me. This is getting ridiculous. I

village's time."

"There has to be sufficient detail to review," added Mayor Marilyn Shineflug.

The problem was, the plans submitted did not include storm water detention. Christensen said his engineer's calculations differed from the Antioch Village Engineer's, and the property does not require the detention area. Silhan disagreed. "I go by what Mr. Hueber (Village Public Works) and Mr. Boldt (Village Engineer) says," said Silhan.

Christensen's attorney, Dave Edwards, attempted to convince the board to go ahead and grant the extension. "He (Christensen) is just going to build apartments," said Edwards. "From what I have heard, he is being pushed around."

Christensen, may have felt pushed around as he attempted to satisfy both village regulations as well as state. Even Silhan admitted it was difficult. "The sitework is a problem," said Silhan. "The coordination with IDOT (Illinois Department of Transportation) is a problem with all petitioners."

Edwards said neighbors of the proposed condominium had not wanted rental units to be built. Both Christensen and Edwards hoped a threat of rental property would sway the board.

However, the Antioch Village Board was not buying it. One issue of concern by the board was the length of time between the initial public hearing and the believe the primary reason for the time limit is for public notification," said Trustee Marvin Oldenburger.

"He's going to have to have a new notice for the condominium,", said Oldenburger. Oldenburger was worried that extending the variance risks the possibility of people moving in and out of the neighborhood, without the prior knowledge of the condominium project.

The other trustees agreed. It was a unanimous vote to allow the variance to expire. Trustees Don Amundsen and Wayne Foresta were absent.

Christensen was told to resubmit an application for a variance and to once again go through the planning and zoning board process. Since public notice of 28 days is required to get on the docket, the issue cannot be addressed until April

Homeowners learn about property rights

DONNA RAYMO .

Correspondent

The United Homeowners Association of Unincorporated Antioch (UHAUA) held its monthly meeting with approximately 50 people in attendance. The sewer feasibility study was the opening topic.

The group was particularly interested in the cost and obligations of the study. Sewer Chairman Bill Linniewicz addressed the group and explained, in detail, what would be involved.

The completed survey would indicate to homeowners the cost and likelihood of running a sewer system throughout the unincorporated areas in Lake County. According to Linniewicz, there would be no charge to the homeowners to do the study and get the results.

"You have to have the study first before anything can happen. After the study, the people will have a say in whether it is to be a reality," said Linniewicz.

Richards, Ralph, Eiden, Eckert & O'Donnell was introduced by Programs Director Chris Peters. He then spoke to the group about problems of liability and ownership of property by associations.

He answered a variety of questions from the floor. Of concern to UHAUA members were definition of property lines, unclaimed property and liability of homeowners, especially those with water rights.

Carole Jonites, president of UHAUA said of the group, after one year since its start, "It has proven to be very successful and growing."

The group will hold its next meeting March 14. and is looking for a larger to place to conduct business and accommodate its rapidly growing membership.

County Board Member Judy Martini attended the meeting and praised the group's efforts. "I would like to commend all of you for getting together and doing something. This in encouraging for the Attorney Alan E. Richards, from the firm of more voices, the more action."

Antioch Dist. 34 seeks petition circulators

Antioch School Dist. 34 will meet with volunteers interested in circulating petitions designed to urge the Illinois General Assembly to provide a formula for Dist. 34 voters who live in Antioch Twp. to have their votes counted equally on the question of the formation of the Lake Villa Unit Dist.

The meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 28, beginning at 7 p.m. at the W.C. Petty School, and anyone interested in helping to circulate a petition or help organize the petition drive is welcome to attend.

addressing this question through the courts with a lawsuit filed on . their behalf on Friday, Feb. 17, by attorney James Bakk. Since both court relief and legislative relief include significant obstacles, the district wants to actively strive in both arenas in its attempt to correct what it considers to be an obvious injustice.

According to attorney Bakk, the statute in question has undergone a series of amendments over the years because of problems encountered in both applirately as it will for other affected districts.

Board member Earl "Bud" Newton commented, "It's ironic, really. Since the beginning of this issue we've consistently said people should have the right to vote on it, and now we're the ones having that right denied."

Unit school

From page A1 spoke of the need for cooperation. All felt the proposed new district, which would encompass all of the Lake Villa area, would improve the quality of education for those students in the new district.

However, District Superintendent Daniel Burke and Assistant Superintendent Donald Skidmore painted a fairly bleak financial and educational picture for District 34 if the new district is approved.

"We go from a solvent school to one who will have less to invest and will have to borrow money in the spring," said Skidmore. "We will become a debtor school district. We could be put on the financial watch list."

The problem, of course, is not the loss of students to the new district. Enrollment projections indicate those students will be replaced by anticipated growth in under 10 years.

Instead, the heart of the issue is the division of assets. District 34 stands to lose $5,575,744 in assets to the new district. In addition, there are several other hidden costs to residents.

One of the hidden costs includes the cost to replace Oakland School. While the building, as it stands, is valued at a little under $3 million, cost of replacing the same building today would be over $4 million. This represents a hidden cost to Antioch District 34 voters of $1.4 million.

At this time, it is not known if the district can be forced to turn over Oakland, "We don't know if we absolutely have to surrender the school legally," said

Another "hidden" includes the fact the district will have to repay 22 percent of its assets despite the fact only roughly 19 percent of students in District 34 reside in the proposed unit boundaries. This is because the rates were frozen using the 1992-1993 student attendance rate according to the state statute. "We eat that," said Skidmore.

Other effects on District 34 include an increase in class size to accommodate Oakland students, reduction in programs due to cost considerations, and reduction in staff. Burke said to the school board, "I will recommend, during the March meeting, honorable dismissals. This will avoid overstaffing if the unit district is approved.

Suggested reductions in personnel include 11 nontenure teachers, one music teacher, one physical education teacher, three reading tutors, one principal, one library aide, one computer lab aide, one elementary supervision aide, two secretaries, two custodians and three cafeteria work-

Burke also pointed out that overcrowding will not be relieved by the formation of the unit district: "A successful Lake Villa unit school district creation will not solve our space problems," he said. Although the loss of 17 classrooms at Oakland will need to be made up either by the construction of a new school or shifting other programs.

"If we surrender Oakland, we would go from 59 regular classrooms to 39. In year one, we could go from an average of 21.5 students per classroom to 31.1," Burke explained. To avoid such large classes, the district plans to use the music and band rooms as regular classrooms with music being taught from cart. Also, the plan includes moving special education back to SEDOL at a cost of $15,000 per class and using the special education room as a regular class room.

The meeting provided other useful information including a discussion on why the district is attempting legal action. "The problem is you are looking at losing assets in the neighborhood of $5 million, but legally you do not constitute a 'real interest'," explained Jim Bakk, the attorney handling the case for the district. Bakk explained how the statute, interpreted by the County, does not allow the votes of Antioch members of District 34 to be counted for the district.

The information packets distributed at the meeting are available at the district office at W.C. Petty.

"And finishing in third place, from Grayslake, Joe Kerns".

Kerns stood proudly on the third spot of the awards stand as he made Grayslake High history with the highest finish ever for a Ram in the Class AA meet.

"It feels good. It is good to remind the kids that because you are from Grayslake, you can still place," Kerns said.

Girls end successful year in regional finale

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

Antioch's girls basketball team may have concluded its season with a 40-36 loss to host Carmel in the regional championship, but the Lady Sequoits kept their poise by erasing a 13-point halftime deficit and by showing fans they were worthy of a championship victory.

Thanks to the accurate shooting of Dana Pierson and Rachel Hauser, the Sequoits jumped out to a 7-point scoring drive to open the fourth quarter and to close the game to 31-28. On two other occasions, Hauser hit jumpers to bring the game to within 3. At times, an Antioch come-from-behind upset seemed imminent.

But Carmel benefited from a strong firsthalf showing and held on for the victory.

"It was one of those would have, could have and should have games," said Antioch Coach Dave Woods. "I thought we could have pulled it out in the fourth quarter."

Antioch held Carmel standouts Erin

Potempa and Colleen Krombach to one field goal a piece in the second half, as the Sequoits outscored Carmel 23-14 in the last half, but the determining factor was Carmel's 26-13 edge in the first half.

"I really think the first half was a case of the jitters," said Woods, whose team ascended to the regional final for the first time in more than a decade. "They didn't quit in the second half. They just battled, and we had our opportunities."

Despite going into the locker room with a comfortable 26-13 advantage, Carmel Coach Larry Whittier credited Antioch's defense for wearing out his players in the first half. "I think we ran out of gas in the second half," he said. His team only managed 5 points in the third quarter.

After Carrie Gofron (4 points) opened the scoring, Carmel went on a 6-0 scoring run with the help of key steals and rebounds by Potempa (13 points) and Jamie McGill. Carmel out rebounded Antioch 32-15 and See SUCCESSFUL page A13

Antioch boys basketball team dropped its season conference finale to Stevenson 66-58.

Both teams entered the contest with 6-9 North Suburban Conference records, and both teams were hoping to edge the other for the higher slot in the final standings. The Stevenson victory secured a sixth-place finish for the Patriots, while the Sequoits fell to seventh place to round out the year. Antioch enters the Waukegan sectional with a 13-12, 6-10 record.

Antioch had jumped out to an early 16-12 lead by the time the first-quarter buzzer alarmed. Eric Eckenstahler paced the Sequoits with 22 points and 6 rebounds. He also denied Stevenson of five potential baskets with 5 blocks.

Stevenson had steadily whittled at the lead until the final four minutes of the second quarter. Then, the fireworks exploded.

Stevenson's Ryan Pohlman picked up his third foul and was later hit with a technical after he wrestled Dan Riepe for a loose ball. The Sequoits converged on 1 of 3 freethrows for the 23-21 lead and they eventually built a 26-23 edge.

The technical seemed to be the spark Stevenson needed, and the momentum change Antioch wanted to avoid.

Stevenson's Peter Ferguson (18 points) and Dan Brown (18 points) added fuel to the fire by streaking with 15 unanswered points to conclude the half. Stevenson quickly found themselves with the 38-26 advantage at halftime.

The Patriots went on to control the tempo for the remainder of the game, never allowing the Sequoits to change the momentum into their advantage.

Stevenson had a comfortable 53-40 lead to enter the fourth quar-

Assisting the Sequoits in their ill-fated effort were Kevin Geraghty with 10 points, Mike Tschanz with 6 points, and Eric Campbell with 7 points. Kevin Eckenstahler added 6 points before fouling out, and Riepe had 5 points.

Antioch will host its first regional game Feb. 28 since the new ranking system was implemented. The No. 8 seed Sequoits host No. 9 seed Lake Zurich at 7:30 p.m. as March Madness tips off.

> "There is no doubt that the boys' hard work all season paid off during the conference tournev." said Coach Tim Osmond.

The eighth-grade basketball team included Phillip Delany, Chris Eibl, Nick Freeman, Joe Fusz, Eric Hansen, Brian Johnson, Michael Miller, Greg New, Michael Osmond, Nick Papaleo, Brian Payant, and Andy Schaefer.

The seventh-grade team also went on to take third place in the conference.

Team members included Conrad Adkins, David Ano, Paul Arnold, Gene Byrne, Craig Eibl, Eric Geyer, George Girten, Jeff Hoffman, Adam Kerr, Jarrod Lewis, Jason Lonergan, Brian Mauer, and Dino Vrakas.

The sixth-place team also finished strong in the Fox Valley with a fourth-place finish.

Sixth-grade players included Larry Addison, Burt Bucar, Ryan Hansen, Bob Huebner, Brian Kraenzle, Luke Larson, Matthew Miller, Matthew Nelson, Matthew Nischan, Brent Nowak, and Peter Pioli.

Williams has a dynasty at the weight class, as he has won the title each of the last three years.

Kerns won an overtime battle with Jason Buck of Carl Sandburg 7-5 then downed Paul Rasmussen of Hinsdale South 6-1 to gain the third-place medal.

"I told Joe that he is his own coach for the last two matches. He can go out a winner. He had his world shattered by losing for the first time, but he is such a mature wrestler," Skoog said.

"There is not much time to think about it," Kerns said.

So Kerns donned a Grayslake Middle School uniform and battled his way to Grayslake history books.

"In the semifinal match, I counted 10 shots for Joe against one for his opponent," Skoog said.

Sean Lovelace of Roselle, whose stalling tactics were left uncalled in Skoog's view, outlasted Kerns.

Stacey stepping down as Rams coach

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Grayslake High is looking for a new volleyball coach.

Dan Stacey announced his plans to resign at the end of last season after a total of four years as head coach.

"He told me at the beginning of the season this would be his last year. We will advertise the position in school and wait and see what teaching positions there are," Rams Athletic Director Dan Dillon

"I just decided to take some time off. I will still be attending matches - but as a spectator," Stacey said.

Stacey said he sees both sides of the club vs. non-club play, a key issue in developing volleyball programs.

"If this were a larger school, there would be more specialization. I see both sides of it. The girls want to get a well-rounded academic and sports background with basketball and track. I would like to see the top six or eight players play club ball, but I do not think it is feasible here." Stacey said.

The Rams had their best success in a decade under Stacey's leadership in 1992. They were unbeaten in Northwest Suburban Conference play and won a regional tourney.

"That team had the ability to overcome obstacles. They were not a big team, but we played excellent defense and kept fighting back," Stacey said.

Nicki Bonfanti and Allison Waldenstrom were the leaders of the 26-5 Rams.

"I expected us to do a little better," Stacey said of 1994. They Rams still managed a second-place 9-6 finish in the NWSC. "I really enjoyed working with the good group of girls," he Courtney Caldwell, Amy Artlet and Dana Dorr return for the Rams along with three sophomores who play club ball.

"I'll be a spectator and enjoying it," Stacey said.

Mendralla shines in 4th; Rams champs

In other quarters, other players have a chance to shine for Grayslake High's boys basketball team. But the final eight minutes, that is Mandralla Time for the Gravslake faithful and the Rams know it.

Dave Mendralla took control of the game by scoring 15 of his game-high 31 points in the final session as Grayslake held off Grant 71-60 Tuesday.

The win secured a successful defense of the Northwest Suburban Conference championship and the third overall during Coach Greg Groth's tenure.

"(John) Parr had 13 in the first quarter and Pete Neuberger had 8 of his 10 points in the third quarter, so different guys stepped up at different times," Groth said:

Parr finished with 24 points. "I am very proud of the kids.

We did not want to share it with anybody. We had beaten Johnsburg three times and the last thing we wanted was to share the conference title with them," Groth said.

The Rams enter post-season play 18-7 overall, 12-3 NWSC.

We have had a lot of illness lately and only had three or four practices with our full compliment of 15 players," Groth said.

Groth said the turning point came against Grant when the visitors turned up the defensive pressure.

Grant led 36-34 at the half, but only scored 8 third quarter points. "Grayslake played a good game and just shot the ball well. We did not shoot the ball as well as we had to. That was the only difference," Bulldogs coach Tom Maple said.

The Bulldogs went to a 1-3-1 defense to double-team Parr and that seemed to work in the second half.

Dave Stone, playing in his last home game, had 15 points and Mike Nelson 12.

Grayslake is the seventh seed and the Rams host Waukegan in the first round of the Waukegan sectional March 1 at 7:30 p.m.

"Our kids are confident we can win. We have not played at home in a month and there will be a great crowd and we always play well at home," Groth said.

Mendralla finishes about 25 points per game while Parr is at 14-15 points a contest.

Grant, the 13th seed, is at Warren, the fourth seed, at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 28.

"Warren plays great defense but if we can get them to a halfcourt game we should be all right. They are not especially good shooters and we should take advantage of that," Maple said.

Deadline for applications is March 3. For more information, call 395-1772.—Information compiled by Grass Lake School students

Sequoits sneak by North Chicago, gain ugly win

No matter which way you look at it, winning ugly still goes down as a 'W' in the standings.

The Antioch boys basketball team managed to sneak a 52-50 victory past host North Chicago.

"Actually, it was kind of a gift. They (North Chicago) only hit 6 out of 25 from the line," Antioch Coach Jeff Dresser said. "It was ugly, but we did what we had to to win."

The Sequoits trailed by as many as 10 in the second quarter before they were able to cut the lead in half, 26-21, at intermission. North Chicago's 1-3-1 trap contained Antioch standout Eric Eckenstahler to 11 points, but Kevin Geraghty stepped in to fill the void with 15 points to lead Antioch's offensive charge.

'It was really a strange game. We just tried to do too many things too quickly," Dresser said. "I think our kids thought the best shot was the first shot, and it wasn't. It was a pass or two away."

The Sequoits were also trailing by four points in the fourth quarter until Mike Tschanz (9 points) tied the game 44-44. Eric Campbell (8 points) put Antioch ahead for good with a tie-breaking bucket, 50-48.

Dan Riepe came in down the stretch for Antioch to snatch important rebounds. He also contributed 5 points.

"I think Dan Ricpe came in and did a good job for us," Dresser said. "He gave us some key rebounds when we needed them."

Antioch improved its record to 13-10 as they entered into its final regular season game against Stevenson Tuesday. They next host Lake Zurich Feb. 28 in the opening round of the regional.

Antioch stepped up its defensive posture in the second half. Following an Erin O'Connell steal, Gofron went coast to coast to close the score to 27-17 at the 4:05 mark.

Pierson (13 points) converted a three-point play to start the fourth quarter and hit two more jumpers. Hauser (10 points) then went on a 6-point drive herself. "Rachel really stepped up for us in the second half, and we were running set plays for Dana until they caught on," Woods said. Hauser was named to the All-Conference team, basketball game.

But the Corsairs were able to hold on to the lead and were granted the privilege to cut the net at the end of the game and brandish the regional trophy. Antioch finished the year 11-15.

"I really think if we play Carmel 10 times, we would beat them five times and they would beat us five times. That's how evenly matched we are," Woods noted.

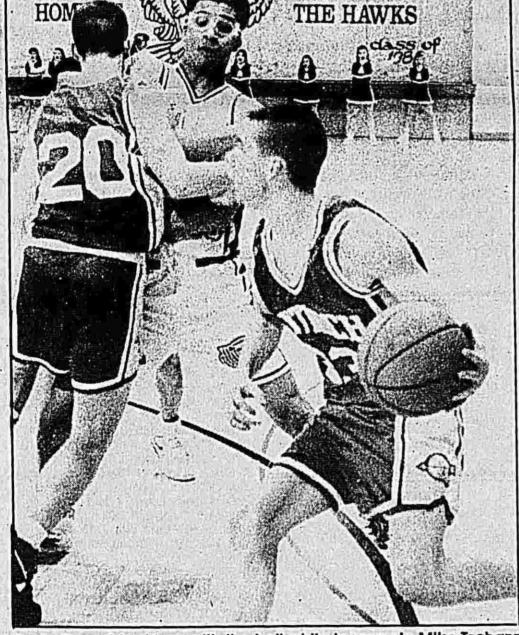

"We're really going to build on this experience," said Woods, who will bring with him two starting juniors (O'Connell and Mary Ipsen) and two sophomores (Gofron and Jeanna Miller) to his lineup next season. "We're already talking about summer camps and summer leagues," Woods added.

Lindenhurst Stars defeat Chiefs

The Wauconda Chiefs found themselves on the losing end, as the Stars blanked them 3-0 at Poplar Creek Sports Centre-Hoffman Estates. It was a physical game right from the opening kick. Both teams held their own with great goal keeping and defense. The score was 0-0 at the half.

The Stars came out smoking in the second half. Samie Korbal exploded for three goals. Assists were handed out to Katie Gofron (two) and Megen Rinkenberg (one). Jill Houghton took over in the net for Rinkenberg in the second half and joined in sharing the shut-out.

Contributing big plays to secure the win were Esther Scheurer, Amie Smith, Becky Sosnowski, Maureen Moran and Natalie Richter. The Stars improve their record to 2-2-1.

Resident, Realtor speak out on marina

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

A number of people came out to hear the Fox Waterway Agency meeting in McHenry last week and some of them addressed the board.

Concern is still apparent over the lease to purchase agreement with the owner of Hidden Cove Marina on Rte. 12, where the Agency plans to have their new home.

Re/max Advantage of Antioch Realtor Michael Lescher believes the price of $736,000 is just too high for the property.

Lescher also had other questions concerning broker Bob Jensen's involvement in the sale. He explained it as a possible "conflict of interest" because Jensen's wife Judy is employed by Dr. William Dam who is the chairman of the Agency.

"There's a question why the Realtor would be engaged, after the deal has been made," said

According to Lescher, the Agency board already agreed to purchase Hidden Cove before Jensen was hired by Ray Freeman, the owner of the marina. Dr. Dam said by law, the Agency couldn't hire a real estate agent to help them with the deal, but the owner had to have one.

Lescher doesn't have a problem with it now, but prior to the meeting last week, he was also concerned with rumors that Jensen had cut a deal with the marina owner for a huge commission, somewhere around $60,000. At the meeting the Agency board clarified that Jensen received the average amount of three percent which equals around $22,000.

"The problem is, I'm behind Dr. Dam 99 percent of the time, but it irritates me they would do something like this," said Lescher.

Chairman Dam said the meeting went well and "The audience was overwhelmingly in support of the board."

Dam noted that former Agency director and Re/max Advantage Realtor Judy Martini showed him one example of a marina for sale in Antioch. Inland Marina is selling for $900,000 and is a onestory building with ceilings about 8 foot high, said Dam. This is nothing like Hidden Cove which comes equipped with over 40-piers and plenty of room to store their dredging equipment.

Also, Hidden Cove is centrally located between McHenry and Lake counties which they service. There's a large parcel adjacent they are planning to purchase as well...

The Agency has been forced to move out of their marine location on Nippersink Rd. due to improper zoning, and the office on Grand Ave. is just too small, explained Dam.

The state, which is funding the purchase, is thrilled with the buy, said Dam, as well as the Agency employees who will have more room to work.

While longtime resident of Fox Lake and former ship captain, Don Kolner said he likes to keep quiet most of the time, he did speak out on what he observed at the meeting.

Kolner, who has been in Fox Lake for over 40 years, said he became infuriated when he heard what Lescher told the board and Dr. Dam.

The resident went on to explain the chairman he has known for so long. "He's honest. You can't take that away from him," Kolner said about Dam.

Kolner, well-versed in waterways, said in his opinion, the Hidden Cove is a fine place for the Agency headquarters. It's surrounded by sea-walls, and comes with electric hoists and other things they will put to good use. The site was "well thought out," said Kolner.

As a resident and a seaman, Kolner has faith in the Agency and its chairman for what has already been done, and what will be accomplished, he

Pat Ciko of Re/Max Advantage a caring, successful Realtor

This article is being reprinted in its entirety due to errors which appear in the article as it appeared in the Lake Villa/Lindenhurst Business Focus published Feb. 17. Lakeland Newspapers regrets the error.

Whether you're buying or selling a home, Pat Ciko, an independent Realtor for Remax in Antioch, will genuinely take great care and work hard to get you the best deal available.

Pat not only cares about her clients, but backs it up with successful results. Her hard work earned her the most sales in her office in 1994. She sold a home on the average of every six days. Pat has nine years experience, and as a Certified Residential Specialist, is part of an elite group of only 4-percent of Realtors in the country with the CRS designation. To achieve this distinction, Pat underwent advanced training and study in the field of residential sales. Pat is a Graduate of the Real Estate Institute, and is an Accredited Buyer's Representative, which required extensive classes and education.

But there's more to Pat Ciko than the number of certifications she's acquired. She expresses a great deal of concern and care for the people she works for. Pat is especially proud of her success with finding homes for people who are relocating, and also likes working with the first time home buyer. She says, "Both need a great deal of care and time in finding that perfect home."

Because there's a lot of competition out there, Pat has concentrated on educating herself and learning the latest techniques in order to better serve clients, and often puts in seven-day work weeks. Pat, who resides in Lindenhurst, is actively involved in her community and helping others. She is a Lindenhurst Chamber of Commerce member, participates as an election judge, and is involved with PADS (Public Action to Deliver Shelter to the Homeless), and is an active member in her church. "The number one thing to me is God, and everything falls into place after that," Ciko said: "I get a great deal of satisfaction from helping people."

Ciko is a broker in Illinois and Wisconsin, and is a member of the Lake County Board of Realtors in addition to the Kenosha Board of Realtors. If you want someone who thinks total customer satisfaction is more than just a slogan, call Pat Ciko at Re/Max Advantage, 532 W. Lake St., Antioch, 395-3000, ext. 141, or 356-1994.

Salvi in favor of some type of tort reform

NEAL TUCKER

taff Reporter

State Rep. Al Salvi (R-Wauconda) is a awmaker in favor of tort reform. Practicing Attorney at Law Al Salvi is also a trial lawyer in favor of tort reform.

The issue of limiting lawsuits characterized as frivolous has spawned a hotbed of debate primarily between common citizens who are fed up with outlandish awards, businesses and doctors who say they can no longer afford the escalating liability insurance premiums, and members of the legal profession who claim tort reform will take away the common man's right to defend himself against negligence."

"Too many frivolous lawsuits represent a societal problem. We don't settle out differences anymore. The first thing people think is 'I am going to sue.'" Salvi said.

A bill addressing tort reform was approved by the House last week, but Salvi says even though the goals of the bill as a whole are good, the actual legislation voted in is flawed and requires fine tuning. The main problems of the bill could have been refined with more time before the vote.

"We were given a 67-page, 2,419-line bill with one day to read it before the vote. Most of the bill was good but we should have had one week. No one here read it-on both sides of the aisle," Salvi said.

In general terms, the bill calls for rules changes in medical malpractice, a review board for malpractice, and caps on excessive damages.

The key line of the bill, especially according to medical interests, calls for a $500,000 cap on non-economic damages such as pain and suffering awards. Outlandish non-economic awards are arbitrary numbers which make it difficult for either side of a lawsuit to evaluate when to cut their losses and settle. The result is many lawsuits drag on in court for greater lengths of time until they are either settled or dropped.

Salvi pointed out one of the flaws in the approved bill when he talked about the cap imposed on punitive damages. The bill calls for punitive damages not to exceed a number that is three times the amount of actual damages. In theory this is good but Salvi said in cases where there are no economic damages three times zero is still zero. This flaw inhibits a person's right for legal retribution and gives fuel to the argument of those who oppose tort reform.

Is spite of the flaws in the bill, Salvi is still optimistic about the chances for it to be fine tuned. It Al Salvi still needs to go through an approval process with the State Senate, where Salvi hopes each portion of the bill will be broken down and reworked if necessary. If this process does take place as expected on the senate floor, he says the eventual bill will be better than it now stands.

"What we did—while not perfect—will ultimately be in the best interests of the people in this state. The bill to the governor's desk will result in a system that is fair," Salvi said.

Developing CPR and First Aid education and unifying resources were the main topics of discussion as Save A Life Week began with a meeting in Chicago Tuesday.

"What each agency brings is to unify all our efforts. Last year, it was Save A Life Day, this year it is Save A Life Week. It is the result of a lot of hard work and endless hours of tears and frustration of one lady," Adam Zakrocymski, vice president of sales and marketing for Gurnee based Medical Devices International, said.

Gov. Jim Edgar has issued a proclamation stating Feb. 19-25 is Save A Life Week. This follows bipartisan support of a Senate Bill passed which mandates training for first aid for all policemen. Congressman Richard Durbin (D-Chicago) was an early supporter of Save A Life Foundation President Founder Carol Spizzirri's efforts.

"I received a letter stating, "I am not a resident of your district, but I would like to speak with you in Washington'. The chances of me responding to that letter are normally slim and none but I was so moved by her story," Durbin stated.

Durbin said his colleagues were shocked when they learned that policemen did not at that time have to be trained or rectified in CPR and First Aid pro-

Phil L. Milanich, 17, of 35 Arlington Rd. in Fox Lake, was visiting a friend at his Hidden Glen condominium home at 91 Edison, when he was shot in the chest, Feb. 18.

Several other high school students were also at the home with Milanich and the teen-age resident at thetime.

police, to According Milanich's 15-year-old Grant High School friend called them immediately after the shooting around 4:12 p.m.

"Right now we believe it was nothing more than an accident," said Lt. Edward Gerretsen of the Fox Lake Police Department. According to reports, the 15-yearold was showing a .25 caliber semi-automatic hand gun to his friend when the gun went off, shooting him in the chest.

Police said an investigation is still underway, however, and they are awaiting an autopsy report.

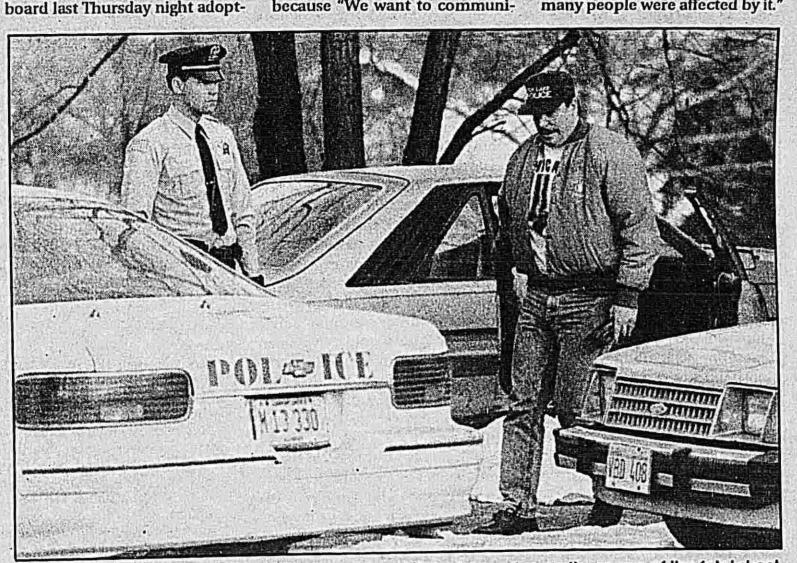

Currently police are reviewing the case with the Lake County States Attorney's office to see what, if any charges will be filed.

Senator honored by Lake County residents

Nearly 1,000 Lake Co. residents and dignitaries attended the "Salute to Auntie Geo," held in honor of State Sen. Adeline J. Geo-Karis of the 31st Senate Dist. at the Country Squire banquet hall in Grayslake.

The guest of honor, State Treas. Judy Baar Topinka, spoke glowingly of the senator.

"The great crowd here is a great tribute to Geo's hard work and integrity for the people of her district and of the state," said Topinka. "Geo was my mentor and my role model and reminded me of the goddess Athena, who is the goddess of wisdom. She was always there when I needed her help and advice during the recent campaign for state treasurer. Geo was a friend of my late mother, and I was honored to have her give me the oath of office when I was sworn in as treasurer last month.

Also in attendance was Lake

Co. Republican Chairman John Schulien, who also spoke of Sen. Geo-Karis' accomplishments as an elected official. Senate President James "Pate" Philip was scheduled to attend but had to cancel with short notice for medical reasons after suffering a fall on ice.

Sen. Geo-Karis thanked everyone for coming with a heartfelt speech. "I appreciate the help of all the precinct committeemen, all of the people here tonight, and the co-chairman who made this wonderful evening possible. I am deeply honored that Judy Bar Topinka could attend this event and I love all of you."

Susan Simpson of Warren Twp. and Tim Osmond of Antioch Twp. co-chaired the event. Dawn Miller of Mondelphy C WELLS HOOFINA Steve Simonian of Libertyville, general chairmen for M were also in attendance.

Forest preserves receive high rating

For the seventh year in a row, the Lake Co. Forest Preserves have received the highest rating granted by the Park Dist. Risk Management Agency (PDRMA), a self-insurance risk pool made up of 114 Illinois park and recreation agencies. Along with the exceptional rating, a cash award of $1,500 was earned in the annual evaluation of the forest preserves' loss control program.

With a goal of making preserves, facilities and programs as safe and cost-effective as possible, the Lake Co. Forest Preserves maintain high standards for a variety of accident prevention methods. Hazard inspections, recreation safety practices and claims management are examples.

"We have really attempted to promote the idea of accountability and safe operations in every facet of our programming and facilities, said Jim LaBelle, forest preserve president. "There is a definite correlation between quality programs and reduced losses. We save money by belonging to a risk pool rather than using commercial insurance. Continued development of our loss control program will help prevent losses and save money," said LaBelle. "There is a definite correlation between quality safety programs and reduced losses. Thirty-nine hospitals from Sandwich to Libertyville are participating. The events are cosponsored by the Illinois Hospital Association, HealthSystems National Safety Council and fire departments and healthcare agencies.

The mission of the Woodland Meadows mother is in memory of Christinia Spizzirri. She died at age 18 in a Labor Day, 1992 car accident in Park City.

"What is more important than the ability to save a life," Durbin said.

"When I started this I was all alone. The kids were my major support. We have the ability to save lives - it is in our own hands. As one state trooper said, I may never use by billyclub or my gun, but I will probably use my hands to save a life'. Having someone with basic first aid and CPR skills will bring a person to a hospital in better condition," Spizzirri said.

The not-for-profit foundation has worked to gain legislation requiring CPR training at police academies and gained allocation of federal funds.

"We need to make CPR as popular as seat belts and not smoking Lorenzo Little, representing Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun (D-Chicago), said.

Seattle is looked at as the capitol of bystander CPR legislation, with 200,000 citizens certified.

"We need to bring CPR classes where the people are in churches and community centers and to junior highs and high schools," Little commented.

Little will be suggesting that the senator's office staff all be certified.

State Rep. Louis Guittierez (D-Chicago) has already had his staff certified in CPR and has been a major backer in state legislation.

"I was certified a year ago. I was working at a health club and a woman had a seizure," Nadine Aurora, Guittirez's representative,

Dr Jane Strong of Dr. Raymond Bahr's office said CPR education goes hand-in-hand with their office's specialty, heart attack treatments. The office donated 500 videos "FamAlert Attacks Have Beginnings."

"We would love to have everyone learn CPR," Julia Dwyer, Illinois Health Department, said.

"The toughest part of my job is talking to families. People come into the emergency room way beyond help and in many cases if some common sense medical care would have been used, the person would have survived," Dr. Karen Rhodes, Mt. Sinai Hospital, said. "The message you want to get across is to do something'."

"The kids want to learn it and want someone to show them how to care and who God is. CPR teaches them to save a life, not take one," Spizzirri said.

Those present at the Chicago Hyatt meeting plan to meet next month to further develop strategies.

Board names new planning, building director In a special meeting, the Lake

County Board approved a county planner from the Kansas City area as the new Lake County Director of Planning, Zoning and Environmental Quality.

At the recommendation of County Board Chairman Robert Depke and the Planning and Zoning Committee, the board named Barry Hokanson as the new director. Hokanson, who was director of planning in Johnson County, Kan., replaces Robert Chave, who retired after 12 years as director of planning, zoning and environmental quality. The hiring was approved Feb. 21.

"He brought a lot of things forward in the county, and he's built a good staff," Depke said of retiring Chave.

As one of the fastest growing counties in the country, Johnson County resembles Lake County in many ways. Being outside major cities, both counties have witnessed tremendous growth within the last decade.

"Johnson County has 400,000 people and is growing, and Lake County has 550,000 people and is growing," said Board Chairman Depke, who traveled to Johnson County to interview some of Hokanson's superiors.

"They spoke highly of him," Depke said. "They're a little more advanced in some areas than we are, and we're a little more advanced than they are. I think we will have a good director.

Hokanson will also oversee the building department, which calls for the elimination of the building director position, currently held by Robert Streicher. The future of Streicher and the building director will be up to Hokanson, Depke said.

"That will be his decision when the time comes as well as many other department heads," Depke said. Hokanson's first duty will be combining both the planning and building departments.

In addition, Hokanson will be in charge of 70-75 employees. Depke said other immediate challenges will include overseeing the Framework Plan and implementing a new billboard sign ordinance which commissioners are in the process of fine tuning. Hokanson officially reports to work March 27. by KEVIN HANRAHAN

AT A GLANCE

Petition drive to change law

ANTIOCH—Antioch District 34 parents will be circulating petitions, hoping to convince state legislators

Helander & Gonwa defendents

ANTIOCH—County Clerk Willard Helander and Regional Superintendent Ed Gonwa have been named as defendants by Antioch's District 34 to allow all the voters in the district to be counted in the Lake Villa unit district ballot on April 4. Under the ruling by Helander and Gonwa, 81 percent of the voters won't be counted as Antioch District voters on the ballot. Helander and Gonwa defended their decision, citing the school administrative code and consultations with the State's Attorneys office and the State School Board. District 34 is hoping the courts will allow all district voters to be counted as District 34 voters. No court date has been scheduled.

Police chief resigns

ROUND LAKE PARK—Police Chief Gene Kelly has resigned his position as of last Friday. His resignation was accepted by Mayor Charlene Beyer. Beyer said the resignation letter stated he was leaving for another position. Beyer said she was "shocked" by the Kelly's decision. Sgt. Michael Robinson is the acting police chief. Beyer said the village board will search for a police chief but she doesn't expect the board to make a decision on a candidate until April. Trustee Michael Stagner said he was surprised by the decision and will call for a letter reference for Kelly from the board. He criticized Beyer for ,what he believed, was a lack of being able to work with police chiefs.

Village seeks golf partnership

VERNON HILLS—Discussions have been initiated between the Village of Vernon Hills and the Libertyville Township Open Space District over a possible joint ownership of the 18-hole golf course planned within Gregg's Landing, a 2,200-unit housing development designed for the former John F. Cuneo estate in Vernon Hills. Vernon Hills officials hope to find a partner to help fund the $8 million course, but whether the Libertyville Open Space District will be the party is still to be determined. Approximately $2 million is still available in the township's open space fund.

Responsible Party for change

MUNDELEIN—Citizens for Responsible Government, Raymond Semple, Duane Dudek and Ira Kosova, believe that many issues facing the Mundelein Community are directly related to Mundelein's progrowth position during the current administration. In April, the Responsible Party hopes to take office and make changes in the overcrowded schools and change residential growth into commercial growth.

Club hosts info program

LIBERTYVILLE-The LMV Kiwanis Club will sponsor a breakfast with Ben Davidson, former Oakland Raider, for a powerful health and fitness informational program on Thursday, March 9, at 7:30 a.m. at the Raffaellis Restaurant. Tickets are $7 advanced and $9 at the door. Reservations are required and space is limit-

Dance canceled forever

GRAYSLAKE—This year marks the first in many years the Grayslake Fireman's Association St. Patrick Dance will not be held. A major fund-raiser for the association, Fire Chief Don Mobley said the dance was permanently canceled for a number of reasons. Aside from the dichotomy of preaching against alcohol all year then serving it at the dance, the increase in weekly fire calls and the lack of room at the station contributed to the decision to cease the annual

Science Olympiad team wins

GRAYSLAKE—The Grayslake Middle School Science Olympiad Team has continued its winning ways. The team won the regional Olympiad held at Hawthorn Junior High School in Vernon Hills, qualifying them for another trip to the state contest in Champaign. If the team finishes in the top two places against 30 of the state's top teams as they did last year, they will qualify for the national competition held at ... Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind.

City gains police officer

PARK CITY-The addition of a police officer allows Park City to secure one of long-time civic goals. "We will be able to have two officers on the street," Mayor Rob Allen said. The city is one of 27 municipalities in Lake County which received additional police personnel under President Bill Clinton's "Cop Staff" program.

Parents concerned with plan

LAKE ZURICH—Parents with children attending Lake Zurich Unit District 95 schools are still concerned with the way the district has been handling situations concerning their children, specifically with student class averages and the use and availability of computers. Superintendent Dr. Edward P. Cox unveiled a technology plan 'at last week's board meeting to be approved in May and implemented in phases beginning in August. The plan has been a board goal since last summer and no classroom is overcrowded at this time, he said.

Candidates run as write-ins

KILDEER—Members of the Heritage Party are running as write-in candidates after being bounced off the April 4 ballot by a local electoral board for improperly filing their statements of economic interest. Trustee candidates Robert D. Nielsen, John M. Morand and Caroline Patricia Evans and Village Clerk candidate Judith A. Holman all declared themselves as write-in candidates at the Lake County Clerk's office on Feb. 21. They plan to continue to run as a party, although they will have to be voted as individuals. Independent candidate Jeffrey K. McGuire was also reported to be running as a write-in candidate. He was also removed from the ballot for making the same mistake.

Tickets for car float available

WAUCONDA—Easy money can be made by entering the Wauconda Lions Club Car Float, as temperatures start approaching the 50 degree mark this weekend. A stripped brown Chevy was placed on a patch of ice out on Bangs Lake a number of weeks ago and will lprobably remain afloat throughout the next week. Tickets are on sale to guess when the car will actually drop through the ice, and can be bought for $1 from any Lions Club member or from village merchants.

Group to monitor Pritzker plan

ROUND LAKE—A newly organized citizens group has launched an inquiry into whether the proposed Pritzker family Lake Lure development in the Village of Round Lake is complying with all anti-flooding regulations and water quality standards. "We know downstream communities end up paying all the bills when ... developments aren't done right. That's why we organized," said Suzanne Harris of Long Lake, co-chair of the South Grant Coalition. The coalition will be monitoring development of the 850 acre it owns surrounding a sprawling wetlands area. Estimates of the pristine marsh range from 240 to more than 400 acres. Six associations organized the coalition. More property owners groups are expected to be represented at a meeting Feb. 28.

Hospice offers volunteer training

Hospice of the Great Lakes provides care and support for patients and families facing a life-threatening illness. Volunteers are a vital part of the team-no task is too big or too small, but the most important thing they can do is just "be there" for patients—to reassure them they are not alone, to hold a hand, or to just listen.

As more and more patients and families seek help, the need for sensitive, caring volunteers increases. Responding to that need, Hospice of the Great Lakes will be holding a free Volunteer Training Program March 8 at New Hope Baptist Church in Bolingbrook, IL. # Jail needs focus on voter dilemma

The new call for more money to operate the county jail squarely states a dilemma facing taxpayers today. The desire to reduce public spending and keep taxes down clashes with the desire for more protection and safety for a society where crime continues to spiral upward.

A year from now electors are expected to be asked to vote a tax increase to provide more operating funds for Lake County's bulging jail. County Chairman Robert Depke says he wants a jail referendum on the primary ballot in March, 1996. "We'll find out if people want more police protection," Depke declared. Customarily blunt. Depke clearly frames the "put up or shut up" reality facing law enforcement needs today. If voters really want a heavier hand put on crime, they'll have to open up their pocket books.

The expected 1996 referendum would follow by only 24 months voter rejection of a proposition for $8.8 million in bonds to build and staff facilities for wayward youth. Have attitudes of the public changed so much in the last year to make another crime control measure feasible?

We'll answer our own question with a qualified yes. Even if the public still is reluctant to up the ante for fighting crime, the proposed referendum for which the amount is yet to be determined will be different than the 1994 question on upgrading the youth home. The proposed tax increase would go to fund completion of the unfinished sixth floor of the jail with some additional money earmarked for operations. The unsuccessful proposition contained bricks and mortar needs, but was largely for funding programs and personnel. There's a big difference between the '94 vote and the proposed '96 vote not the least of which is that one was for kid lawbreakers and the other is for adult criminals.

Last year Chairman Depke, the chief judge and State's Atty. Mike Waller put their personal creditability on the line by campaigning for the tax increase. Will the key players be willing to go to the well again?

Officials take 'low road' setting home impact fees for developers

F.T. "MIKE" GRAHAM

In 1988, the County Board Public Service Committee, which I chaired, was told the county had no legal obligation to provide sewer service to Cuneo land north of the E.J.&E. Railroad in Libertyville School Dist. 128.

Nothing has changed legally but the leadership and growth attitudes of the county board. County Board Chairman Robert Depke would have a difficult time passing that sewer service resolution if board members Newton, Raftis, Schulien and Calabresa, all who represent Dist. 128, demanded a more equitable agreement for the school. Lake County is now feeling the real pain of runaway growth in higher taxes caused in part by inadequate impact fees.

Without exception, village and county boards, along with city councils in Lake County, are guilty in varying degrees in accepting and approving development with only token impact fees.

School boards are equally guilty because they allow it to happen without even a whimper of protest, always depending on the taxpayer to bail them out of trouble...

In a study done by Kendig, Inc. in 1986 on the Cuneo land, it was concluded the development of that land would result in a $57- to $64-million tax shortfall in 1986 dollars, mostly attributed to longrange school costs.

No one should have any illusion the county board, under Depke's pro-development leadership. is going to see the light and voluntarily delay the sewer agreements until the school districts are satis-

As near as I can guesstimate, the impact fees as proposed by the developer will not exceed $1,600 per unit. When Dist. 128's day-to-day cost is over $8,000 per student per year, obviously the existing impact fees proposed are obscenely low.

The housing developments will never even recover the tax lag lost. It is difficult to believe how so many otherwise knowledgeable mayors and village board members can be so blind to the total cost of development.

What is the answer? Lobby all county board members, especially Newton, Schulien, Calabresa and Raftis, to delay approval until new and more equitable school agreements can be negotiated.

The Cuneo estate is not being denied use of their land. Even if used for continued farming purposes, it would net $40,000 to $60,000 in annual profit. Deduct the value of all the benefits given to the land free by the public, such as a $125-million Lake Michigan water line, sewer plants, roads, etc., and the land is well within reach. The public is going to pay for it either way, and the Kendig study concluded See COMMENTARY page B5

-Viewpoint Porter biding time on U.S. Senate bid

BILL SCHROEDER

Publisher

Now that he's the ranking member of a major subcommittee, Congressman John Porter(R-10th) is having more fun than ever in the U.S. House of Representatives.

"I love my job," exclaims the North Shore Republican who represents half of Lake County, silencing speculation that he will seek the GOP nomination next year to replace U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, who is not seeking reelection.

Congressman John Edward Porter is the new chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health Human Services Education. Porter has been a of the member Appropriations Committee since 1981. With Republicans in power, he has more authority than ever over U.S. spending.

The year 1994 marked the second year in a row that Porter has been cited by the bipartisan Concord Coalition for fiscal conservancy. His deficit-reduction score was second highest in the 20-member Congressional delegation and in the 92nd percentile among all

House members. Porter repeatedly racks up recognition from citizen groups like the Grace Commission's Citizens Against Government Waste, the National Taxpayers Union, and Watchdogs of the Treasury, Inc. He also received a perfect 100 percent rating from Citizens For A Sound Economy for his 1993-94 voting record.

Why in the world would the studious, soft-spoken politician who has never faced a serious challenger since winning election want to give up a safe House seat for an expensive state-wide primary? Stupid question!

If they had their druthers, all represenatives want to be senators. The pay is the same, but the offices are bigger, the staffs are bigger, the terms are longer and the job is more prestigeous, unless your first name happens to be Newt. Never playing coy, Porter mentions that the timing is all wrong for 1996. Now 1998 might be different, he hints.

From a stylistic point of view, the U.S. Senate would fit Porter's moderate, studied approach to government. The white-haired Republican sometimes seems apart from other members of the House, where flamboyance, impulse and intractibility are almost requirements of the job.

As a strict Constitutional constructionist, Porter had to do some fast talking recently to explain his views on super majority requirements being sought by the hard-driving new conservative GOP leadership with support of militant freshmen. While supporting three-fifths voting as part of House rules, Porter was opposed to casting that requirement in stone for tax increases. In the end, he voted for the Balanced Budget Amendment. Spoken like a senator and explained with aplumb.

In keeping with his centerist instincts, Congressman Porter supports limiting committee leadership service time, but bristles over the sanctions of legally imposed term limits. "Those are artificial restraints," Porter hurrumphs. "Besides, we already have term limits. Two years." That might sound like a weak joke coming from some Congressional denizens, but not from the no-nonsense Porter.

Handsome and distinguished, John Porter fills the idea of a lot of folks of a U.S. senator. In politics, timing is everything. Privately, the veteran lawmaker sees 1996 being someone else's time. Like maybe Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra, for example.

As far as the '96 U.S. Senate race is concerned, this is not yet John Porter's time. But 1998, when the junior Illinois senator Carol Moseley Braun's term is up, is another matter. Another time. And a better time.

Party Lines

GOP passes legislative initiatives in six major areas

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

State Rep. Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa), House majority leader, and his General Assembly colleagues enjoyed a President's Day breather after their recordbreaking bill enactment.

Legislative initiatives in six major areas were passed in 19 legislative days.

"Now, if the Senate follows through, we'll be all set," Churchill said of the unprecedented House action. The Republican leader listed the following accomplishments:

1) Major tort reform; 2) major welfare reform; 3) establishment of charter schools and provision for educational waivers; 4) major crime package; 5) tax caps for Cook County; and 6) realignment of state universities.

On the latter point, Churchill mentioned that appointment by the governor of University of Illinois trustees will eliminate the current quirk where the minority party (Democratic) holds a 6-3 majority of U of I trusteeships. "That shouldn't be when the Republicans are the majority party in the state, including all Constitutional offices."

On GOP team-There might have been momentary bending on tort reform voting by Lake County freshman Rep. Tom

Lachner

Lachner (R-Lake Bluff), but he didn't break when it came to the final ballot.

Lachner tussled with the fact that trial lawyers were supportive of his primary candidacy over a party line opponent March. Lachner was lobbied heavily by wealthy Lake Forest trial lawyer Patrick Salvi, a Democrat, to bolt his party in opposition to Republican plans to cap damages and reduce malpractice insurance costs.

In the end, Lachner supplied a significant 60th vote on the test measure to eliminate the outmoded Illinois Scaffold Act, and he voted with the GOP majority for the overall tort reform package.

Guess Tom will have to dig up some new campaign fund backers in 1996. Trial lawyers have long memories.

Tables turned—With Supt. Ed Noyes leaving Hawthorn School at the end of the school year, critics of Vernon Hills go go growth policies are wondering who the new fall guy will be. They say Noyes was made to be the scapegoat for all of the village's expensive growth policies that engulfed the school district in a sea of red ink and bulging classrooms.

Good marks—Jim LaBelle, new president of the Lake County Forest

Preserve Dist., is being hailed for ushering in an era of fairness and consideration in district operations.

Female commissioners in particular are said to appreciate LaBelle's openness and evenhanded manners, Labelle

"We're being treated now with respect," stated one distaff commissioner.

Elected—Jack Koenig of Deerfield is the new state chair and president of United We Stand, America-Illinois, an independent political organization studying issues and taking positions. United We Stand came into prominence in 1994 promoting the candidacy of Ross Perot for president.

The Illinois group is going to stress its "Star Ranking" system of evaluating public officials statewide that originated in the 10th Congressional Dist. covering the North Shore and parts of Lake County.

Honors Welton: Richard Welton, mayor of Gurnee, has been elected to the Carthage College Board of trustees. Mayor of Gurnee for 22 years, he is chairman of Welton's Food Mart, Inc. which runs Pick 'N Save Food and Pharmacy Centers. He is also an operating partner of Welton's Family Partnership in Gurnee.

"Since becoming mayor of his hometown, Welton has been a driving force in attracting new business to the area. The arrival of Six Flags Great America in the early 1970s followed by Gurnee Mills shopping complex in the 1990s galvanized the village's financial strength by reducing the tax rate significantly," a Cathrage press release states.

One year later: Speaking of Gurnee, Feb. 28 is an important anniversary. Trustees denied annexation of 15 acres at O'Plaine Road and Route 120 requested by Scarsdale. The property is now being developed by nearby Providence Villages developer.

Small world-When Mundelein Village Trustee Bruce Campbell came face to face with a Lakeland newsroom staffer at a St. Thomas vacation resort, it was a startling moment for both. Campbell said he and his wife Joyce, owners of the Signery, have been vacationing there for many years. Mindful of the media presence, he added with a grin, "You know, anything that happens here is off the record!"

the transition? — Waukegan Police Chief George Bridges will be on the ballot along with Joseph R. Waldeck to fill a vacancy for associate judge in the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit. The chief who has been active in anti-gang and violence measures could bring a wealth of knowledge to the court room.

Honor roll- Two members of the Illinois Congressional delegation showed their leadership in fiscal responsibility in last years second session of the 103rd Congress, according to The Concord Coalition's Deficit Reduction Scorecard. Sen. Paul Simon ranked in the 49th percentile among his peers, tying for 9th place among its 48 Democratic Senators. Rep. John Porter and Rep. Philip Crane scored in the top 25 percent of the members of the house on the report.

Upholding the law-Kildeer Village President Barbara Schwietert blasted an editorial running in a weekly paper which criticized the village's electoral board for sustaining an objection to the Heritage Party slate, which was knocked off the ballot for failing to file a statement of economic interest with the County Clerk. The party filed it instead with the Kildeer village clerk. Schwietert said it was an open and shut case. "As duly elected officials, we are sworn to abide by state statutes and to rule otherwise, would have been an attempt to rewrite election law," Schwietert replied. Schwietert and Lake Zurich Mayor Deborah Vasels both agree the instructions to candidates are cumbersome and hard to follow and say reform is needed.

Spending vs. non-spending—The Vernon Hills trustee campaign is beginning to take shape. Three seats are up for election. Incumbent Stephen Henley and newcomer Richard Emery have officially teamed up. Though not confirmed, it is likely that candidates Alvin Israel, William Wolff and Gary Garland will pool their resources together as well. The Henley-Emery twosome will push for village amenities and will likely support Home Rule. The Israel-Wolff-Garland trio oppose Home Rule and want to put a lid on spending. Incumbent Cindy Hebda and candidate Lee Goldberg have maintained their independence so far. Party Line prediction: Look for Hebda to silently round off the Henley-Emery slate.

No trailers in Fox Lake— Holiday Park owners Bob MacNeal and George Watson made a surprise presentation at last weeks' committee of the whole meeting in Fox Lake, in which plans for a hotel and modular home development were discussed. The pair, represented by former Village of Fox Lake planning consultant Nick Trkla, explained they would like to have the project built with TIF (tax increment financing). Mayor Ken Hamsher appeared in agreement with much of what was discussed, but he stomped out any modular homes. "As long as I'm mayor, there's not gonna be a trailer park in Fox Lake," said Hamsher.

Appraiser 'watches' citing- Island Lake Liquor Commissioner Ken Rozhon has been written up again, this time in the National Association of Independent Fee Appraisers newsletter. Rozhon, an IFA instructor, was cited for developing courses for the U.S. Department of HUD (Housing and Urban Development) iņ Chicago. In 1993 he was awarded for a similar program with Veterans the Administration. Rozhon received a Rolex watch for that feat. "Maybe I'll get another one!," laughed the appraiser.

Incidentally, the active farmland on the Cuneo estate as protected by the Farmland Tax Shelter Exemption, pays only 20 to 30 cents per acre for the Lake Michigan water line. ### What voters should know Editor:

Mundelein

Our local school boards (Warren Twp. and Woodland 50) intend to put forth referenda on the April ballot regarding new schools and a large increase in the tax rate.

I have seen my tax bill increase by 75 percent in the past five years. I am becoming truly concerned about it. The increases even under the so-called tax caps have far outstripped inflation. I am concerned that all children are well educated and am willing to contribute to the cause. As elected officials, they have a responsibility to "make their case" as to the need for and amount of a tax increase. So far, I have seen little of the case being made other than a general statement that the school is soon to be overcrowded and a new one is needed. That may very well be the case, but more information is needed.

Following is a partial list of the issues that I have not seen dealt with in the press:

1. What is the projected enrollment for the next, say, 10 years? How accurate do they think that is? How accurate have they been in the past regarding that?

2. Have other means been researched and costed out to meet the space requirements? How permanent is the growth? I attended Deerfield High School 25 years ago and it had 2,600 students, now it has about 1,200. Is the enrollment going to be at 4,000 long enough to justify a $37 million school?

3. If a new building is needed, why split grades? And why send youngest students to existing school? Why not just two schools? Most districts that have more than one campus treat them as separate schools—is there a savings in administrative costs? If so, how

4. Perhaps classrooms in an office-type building would serve the purpose and then could be sold or leased for commercial use. How much capacity are we getting for $37 million for WTHS? The national average for high school construction is $9,500 per student. Are we getting room for an additional 3,800 students? The paper last week said this new school would be 300,000 square feet-if so, it seems to cost $120 per square foot. The nicest office building is only $75 to $80. Is there any evidence that expensive school buildings help in the education of our kids?

5. As for the cost to the taxpayer-please provide the overall figures (district assessed value, total cost w/interest of the bonds, projected growth in assessed value and projected overall tax rate for the duration of the bonds. We have seen in the past that the numbers quoted per homeowner turn out to be far less than the actual. Don't patronize us, if we are smart enough to earn the money to pay the taxes we can understand the fig-

6. Why doesn't the additional tax revenue from the new development that is causing the need for a new school cover the costs of running the new school? What are the amounts of impact fees paid and what portion of the additional costs incurred will come from them?

The above covers most of what the voters need to evaluate the referenda. Any further information would be helpful also. If they are planning public meetings or mailings to explain the issue, I suggest that at least the above items will be covered.

Intergenerational effort puts young in role of the elderly

With more than 32 million citizens now over the age of 65 and an aging generation of baby boomers right behind, the United States is undergoing a demographic shift to an older society. Meeting the needs of an aging population represents a continuing challenge, one that is addressed by a University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service program targeted toward youth and adults.

"Walk In My Shoes" was developed by Molly McErlean, a Ul Extension family life educator based in the Chicago area. Through lessons and hands-on experience, It teaches those dealing with older cltizens how to more effectively communicate with them and serve their needs.

Participants don scratched and colored glasses that simulate deteriorating vision, wear gloves in attempting to open plll bottles, and utilize cassette tapes to simulate hearing problems—all in an effort to learn what It might be like to face the world as an aging person.

McErlean, who holds a master's degree in gerontology, came to Extension two years ago after working in hospitals, primarily educating staff on effective communications with elderly patients.

"Intergenerational programs have become an increasingly popular way of bringing young and old together to learn more about each generation and to benefit mutually by the exchange," she explained. "In the process of working on this idea for Extension, the 'Walk in My Shoes' program evolved."

The primary audience was to be youth Involved In Extension's 4-H program but McErlean is busy presenting the program at the request of suburban Chicago villages seeking to increase the sensitivity and awareness of their employees who deal with older citizens.

"There are a lot of positive and negative stereotypes about aging out there. There is the myth that if you live long enough, you will become senile," she said. "Or some feel that all old people are greedy and selfish. Still others see older people as being all alike. The truth is that older people are just as different from each other and have as many different interests and abilities as any other generation. We try to present a more positive, a more real image that will dispel these stereotypes."

For those working with older citizens, awareness of the sensory changes age brings can be very important.

"Sometimes, because of natural agerelated changes in vision, it may be difficult for some older people to differentiate between the colors green and blue," McErlean said. "So, if you're working in a village office and you direct a citizen to some forms that are in 'the green basket' and there is a blue one right next to it, they have difficulty."

Hearing loss can also complicate communications.

"There are ways that we can all communicate with older citizens more effectively," she explained. "These include simple things like looking directly at the person when you are talking to them, eliminating background noise in an office, and using large-print formats for some Items and forms."

Adults participating in McErlean's program learn first-hand what It feels like from the other perspective.

"As we age, the lens of the eye becomes more yellowed which tends to filter out such colors as violet, blue and green, while yellow, orange and red are easier to distinguish. We simulate that by making participants wear specially-tinted yellow eyeglassés," she sald. "To Illustrate problems with touch and dexterity, we ask the participants to wear gloves while trying to open a pill bottle or coin purse, tie a piece of string into a bow, and shuffle a deck of cards. These experiences help the participants to have a better understanding of the difficulties some older adults face in performing routine tasks."

These changes, in varying degrees, are "Inevitable" in all of us, she noted.

We the Steve To Some You, So

That You Can Better Sewe MATT 20:28

The key is for others to recognize them and respond accordingly.

More than 500 youth and adults in the Chicago area have received this training and the demand has grown to the point that McErlean is spending most of her time with the project training others to teach it.

*This program is particularly helpful to orient new staff at nursing homes, senior care groups, and people in other agency settings where older adults are served," she said.

The challenge is not going to disappear. If anything, it will only increase as the baby boomers continue to age.

"Now and in the future, it is very important for young people and adults to understand the needs of older adults and the challenges they face," she sald.

Grow old gracefully by making most of 'golden years'

Senior citizens make up one of the fastest growing segments of the population in the United States. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, by the year 2050, more than 67 million people—one out of every five in the United States—will be 65 or older.

The prospects for their continued good health, activity, vitality and long life are vastly better than commonly portrayed. Seniors see themselves as more physically and mentally active than younger groups.

· New desires, needs and lifestyles arise as most people grow older. Many choose retirement after a certain age, but many older workers prefer part-time Jobs or phased retirement.

However, retirement is something many look forward to as an opportunity to pursue activities that were pushed aside due to a lack of free time.

Now is an excellent time to pursue travel plans and explore the world and all It has to offer. Whether It be the history of the Kremlin or the Cajun cooking of Louislana, the possibilities to explore an unseen territory are endless.

Often while in the work force, there is little time for phllanthropics, although many people have good intentions of promoting human welfare. There are plenty of organizations always in desperate need of volunteers, and the rewards are far greater than strictly monetary.

> Volunteers are also needed in such places as museums, libraries and day care centers, Just to name a few options. There are many opportunities to remain active in the commu-

Hobbles that have been neglected in the past can be rekindled or a new activity begun. Or, catch up on those movies, plays or books you've been too busy for in the past. Education is a never-ending experience in life. Enrolling in a local college or community classes can be a great learning experience. It is never too late to get a degree, learn a different language, or master an art or craft. Experience is something accumulated over the years that is personal there are no short cuts. These experiences can be shared through the teaching of others, whether they are 5 or 95 years. Don'ts be modest about abilities to pass on your different ares of expertise and knowledge to other peowhich will bring pleasure and , quite possibly, the rewards of giving of yourself and your time. It the placid life is not for your, there is no reason not to get involved.

Seek out the action and not expect the excitement to look for you. However, this is not an unrealistic goal for most. Making yourself available can help fill up your schedule with all sorts of activities.

As lifestyles change, embrace this change of pace to do things as they sult you. The later years in life should be filled with activity and leisure time spent at your discretion.

Stout named to Forest health care evaluation team

Chris E. Stout, Psy.D.; a Buffalo Grove resident and chief of psychology and senior vice president of Forest Health Systems, has been named a member of the health care pilot evaluation team for the 1995 Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award.

The valuation team is part of a new program to determine whether future Baldrige awards should include categories for health care and education. No award will be given in these categories in 1995, but applicant organizations will receive the same review as award applicants, including site visits and feedback reports detailing their strengths and areas for improvement.

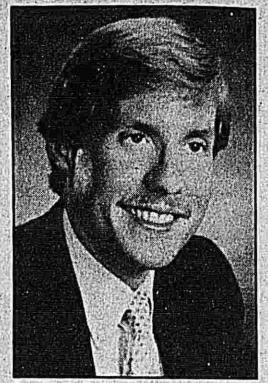

Established in 1987 and administered through the U.S. Dept. of Commerce and the National Institute of Standards and Technology, the award recognizes quality achievements of U.S. companies. The award program maintains a rigorous selection process for award examiners and pilot team participants to assure that those selected meet the highest standards of knowledge and experience.

Stout is an honors graduate of Purdue Univ. and is completing an MBA from the Univ. of Chicago Graduate School of Business. He has been affiliated with Forest Health Systems since 1984.

Stout also is vice chair of the Lake Co. Board of Health Advisory Board and Coordinating Council and served as a consultant to the U.S. Dept. of Education during the Bush administration. He is the author of 12 books and several hundred papers on mental healthcare topics. Two more texts on managed behavioral healthcare are in progress.

Forest Health Systems is a group of behavioral health facilities, including Forest Hospital, that offer treatment programs for children, adolescents and adults suffering from mental and emotional disorders. Forest also offers comprehensive programs for eating disorders, dual diagnosis, substance abuse and partial hospitalization, as well as a range of outpatient programs.

1995 Jazzercise marathon to benefit breast cancer research

The 1995 Jazzercise Marathon to benefit breast cancer research at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center will take place on Saturday, Feb. 25, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The marathon will occur simultaneously at 22 sites in the Chicagoland area, Wisconsin and Iowa.

Each year, 185,000 people learn they have breast cancer. The average woman has a 1 in 8 chance of developing breast cancer in her lifetime. Local members of Jazzercise want to do everything they can to diminish this statistic by raising money for breast cancer research.

Jazzercise participants at the sites will dance/exercise for four hours in hopes of raising more than $200,000. All marathon locations are open to the public and funds are raised through pledges.

Highlights of the 13th annual marathon include a visit to the Chicago site by "Tina" from Chicago's smash hit comedy "Tony and Tina's Wedding," visits to various sites by the Chicago Bulls Wives organization, the Bulls Team Mates, and numerous prizes, including one round-trip coach ticket for two on United Airlines anywhere in the U.S. and a Discovery cruise.

Jazzercise is a worldwide dance/fitness program that was started in Chicago in 1969. The program is taught in 19,000 classes per week in all 50 states and in 38 other countries.

The 1995 Jazzercise Marathon for breast cancer research at Rush is sponsored by Hinckley & Schmitt, Inc., Walgreens, WMX Technologies, United Airlines, the Bulls Team Mates and WTMX-FM Radio. For more information on the event call (312)942-2206.

LaCASA sponsors workshop for partners of survivors of childhood sexual assault

The Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault (LaCASA) has announced that it will hold a supportive, educational workshop for "Male Partners of Adult Female Survivors of Childhood Sexual Abuse" on Saturday, Feb. 25 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The workshop, which will be at the LaCASA/Zacharias Center, located at One S. Greenleaf St., Suite E, in Gurnee, aims at helping spouses understand the trauma and recovery process. "Recovery from abuse impacts both the survivor and partner, as well as their relationship," said LaCASA Clinical Coordinator Nancy Ruth Sims. "Understanding helps reduce conflict from unrealistic expectations."

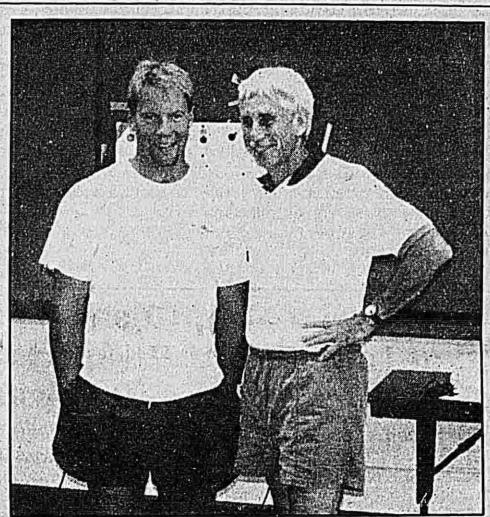

For further information or to register to attend the workshop, call Sims at 244-1187.

Abbott seeks approval for antibiotic

Abbott Laboratories has submitted a supplemental new drug application with the U.S. Food and Drug Admin., seeking approval for the use of Biaxin® (clarithromycin) to treat Helicobacter pylori (H.pylori)-associated peptic ulcer disease.

According to a National Institutes of Health Consensus Statement, there is now evidence to indicate that H.pylori infection (in the absence of other precipitating factors) is casually related to the development of peptic ulcer disease, and that persistent infection accounts for the high rates of ulcer recurrence.

Results of Abbott's research and clinical development program suggest that dual therapy using the combination of Biaxin with the anti-secretory agent omeprazole is a promising regimen for eradication of H.pylori infection and prevention of ulcer recurrence. The most common adverse events associated with the combination were taste perversion, nausea, headache, diarrhea, vomiting, abdominal pain and infection. The application for the Abbott compound is the first to seek an indication for the use of an antibiotic to eradicate H.pylori infortion.

Barry L. Seiller, M.D.(right) medical director of the Visual Filness institute in Colorado to test the U.S. Ski Team's visual performance skill, stops to pose with downhill skier 1992 Winter Olympic gold medalist Tommy Moe. Seiller has a practice in Vernon Hills.

Doctors help ski team prepare for Olympics

Barry L. Seiller, M.D. ophthalmologist and medical director of the Visual Fitness Institute in Vernon Hills, and his associate, optometrist Thomas E. Bobka, O.D., have been working to improve the U.S. Ski Team's visual skills.

This year, the doctors examined members of the men's and women's Alpine and freestyle teams in Lake Placid, N.Y.; Boulder, Colo.; and Park City, Utah. Seiller and Bobka are donating their time and equipment. A grant from Bausch & Lomb is funding their travel expenses and the cost of supplies. The company provides the skiers—and all Olympic athletes—with Bausch & Lomb contact lenses.

In addition to performing a complete vision and visual skills evaluation, Seiller and Bobka prescribe corrective lenses and training exercises that are based on each skier's particular needs. The skiers' visual skills are monitored periodically and their individual training programs adjusted as needed. The doctors began working with the U.S. Ski Team in June 1992.

The doctors' involvement with Olympic athletes started in February 1992, when Seiller was invited to staff the Bausch & Lomb Olympic Vision Center in Albertville, France, and conduct sports vision evaluations on many of the athletes competing in the Winter Games.

Seiller founded the Eye Care Center of Lake Co. in 1968, and has offices in three northern Illinois suburbs. He established the Visual Fitness Institute in 1989 and, since then, has worked with Bobka to develop programs to improve the visual skills of athletes, rehabilitation patients, children with visual skill disorders, manufacturing workers, military and law enforcement personnel, pilots and others.

Condell weight-management program offers shape-up tips

Hoping to shape up this spring, shed some unwanted pounds and improve your health? Most Americans are. And most know that regular exercise is an important part of maintaining a healthier weight. So why don't we do it?

"People who have not yet made exercise a regular part of their lifestyle often find themselves sabotaged by a few common situations," said Karen Demski, manager of the NutriQuest Weight Management System offered by Condell's Medical Center Health Institute (MCHI), located at the Centre Club, 200 W. Golf Rd., Libertyville.

Demski reported that successfully incorporating an exercise program requires addressing these excuses or concerns before they arise and determining how to deal with them. The following are some common excuses for not exercising and ideas from Demski for overcoming them:

•I'm too busy. "Keep an activity diary for one week, logging time spent on every activity, including office time, child care, household chores, cooking, entertainment, television viewing, reading, etc. Then explore ways with your family to combine, delegate or eliminate some activities to create three 20-minute slots per week for exercise."

•I'm just too tired. "Remind yourself that regular exercise will give you more, not less, energy. Experiment at least twice with this idea by committing to take a 20-minute walk before dinner preparations. Take your dog or children along. It won't take more than a few outings to prove to yourself that the fresh air and exercise will increase your energy level for the new few hours."

•I just can't get started on an exercise program. "Pick something you enjoy. Don't be influenced by another's preferences. Consider swimming, walking, tennis, rowing, or another activity to get started. Once energy and endurance levels are improved, you may find yourself drawn to other kinds of exercise."

•I always start out great—then I get bored and give up. "Variety and rest days will keep you going. Many people who are not used to regular exercise go overboard, telling themselves they will engage in a specific fitness activity (such as running or aerobics) every day or several times a week. The activity. quickly loses its appeal and the unrealistic goal of exercise daily can't be maintained. Include several physical activities that will be enjoyed, keeping interest high and avoiding boredom. Remember to take at least two "rest" days per week, giving yourself permission not to exercise. You'll find yourself looking forward to the next exercise

According to Demski, the NutriQuest New Direction Weight Control System at MCHI offers a comprehensive approach to weight control which includes exercise and education as well as behavior modification. For more information on NutriQuest, call MCHI at 362-2905, ext. 5770.

'Baby's First Year' program held at Lake Forest Hospital

Lake Forest Hospital will offer "Baby's First Year Awake and Active: Baby's Learning Begins" on Wednesday, March 8, at 7 p.m. in the hospital's conference center. Parents and their babies are invited to come and explore a variety of play activities to share together. The program will be led by Martha Lepman and Amy Smith, child education professionals at Dearhaven, Lake Forest Hospital's child-care facility.

The program features topics that all new parents are concerned about including when to introduce solids, child safety, changing sleep habits and what's common and uncommon about feeding schedules.

"Whether you're a first-time parent or second, you know that there are many books on the market pertaining to early child development that can be quite confusing," stated Lepman. "In addition, friends may have different views on how they are bringing up their baby, which may not be the right way for you. We're here to assist parents by answering any questions they may have and to help them separate face from fiction in raising their child," Lepman added.

"Infants need to experience play right from the start," said Smith.

"Parents seem at a loss for the types of toys that will stimulate and encourage activity. I'm able to show them ways to be creative by making toys at home for hours of play time fun with their infant," added Smith.

Subsequent classes for four- to eight-month-olds and eight- to 12-month-olds will follow every other month. To register for this program or future Baby's First Year offerings, call 234-6112.

St. Therese to hold second annual Mardi Gras fund-raiser

It's time to start looking for lady luck so you won't see snake eyes at the second annual Mardi Gras held at St. Therese Medical Center.

Attendees can take a gamble on playing poker, black jack, roulette, 50-50 raffle and jackpots for the major fund-raising event. Last year, the event helped raise funds to purchase a van which transports rehab patients to and from the medical center for their rehab classes.

The event, scheduled for March 3 and 4, will be held from 6 p.m. to midnight both nights. Parking is free in the hospital garage. Admission is $5 and tickets may be purchased at the door. Food and drink are available on-site.

Join the fun and help a worthwhile fund-raiser. For more information on the Mardi Gras, please call 360-2041.

Cardinal Bernardin to celebrate mass at St. Therese

Joseph Cardinal Bernadin will celebrate mass a St. Therese Medical Center March 11. He will honor the fifth anniversary of the Council of Catholic Nurses of Lake County with a mass at 11:30 a.m., followed by lunch at 12:30 p.m.

Registration is required. Lunch is $10. Please call 360-2665 to register.

Dine and dance to your heart's desire on Saturday nights, when Sabatini's features a three-piece orchestra that plays all of the older classics. Music is played at a moderate level to complement your dining experience. Uncle Jess and the Stardusters perform every Saturday from 5 to 9 p.m.

The Sabatinis have been established in the restaurant business since 1947, and includes three generations. As Ralph Sabatini stated, "You'll always find a Sabatini on the premises!" Even the chef, Ralph Rossi, is a cousin hailing from Italy.

Diners will enjoy the many specials offered, including the Friday Fish Fry and Pasta Buffet, prepared fresh in front of the customer, for only $7.95. Sunday's Champagne Brunch is also popular at $8.95 (beverage included) for adults, $7.95 for senior citizens, and children under six are free. Brunch, offered from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., features homemade pastries and pastas, with unlimited champagne.

Senior Citizens will enjoy the Senior Specials offered on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. For those over 55, get a complete dinner with a cocktail for only $5.95. The rotating menu always features something delicious! Wednesday brings the all-you-can-eat fish fry for $5.95, seniors $4.95. and Thursday is Steak Night. Get prime aged meats like T-Bone, Filet, or New York Strip steak for only $9.95, including soup, salad bar, potato, and a loaf of homemade bread.

Sabatini's is now featuring their delicious all-you-caneat BBQ spareribs on Wednesday and Thursday nights for only $7.95, and the Filet & Lobster for just $14.95. A bargain if you enjoy great steaks and tasty lobster. Highlighting their specials is the Saturday night Filet & Shrimp for only $8.95. Folks say it's absolutely unbelievable!

Sabatini's Restaurant & Frigate Lounge also has banquet facilities that can accommodate up to 200 people. To reserve a date, call Ralph Sabatini at 587-3211.

Madison Avenue features great cuisine & atmosphere

Not only does Madison Avenue in Waukegan serve delicious food, but the restaurant provides an elegantly casual atmosphere, boasting of their floor to ceiling windows in the main dining room, where you can overlook the beautiful view of Lake Michigan.

The restaurant features two candlelit dining rooms with three levels of dining and seating for up to 110.

Madison Avenue is family-owned and operated by Marilyn Eccles and her sons Kevin and Kit. The restaurant features American cuisine with dishes such as chicken, ribs, a variety of steaks, fresh fish, and one of their most selected entrees, prime rib. On Tuesday night, prime rib is offered for only $8.95, regularly $13.95. Along with your choice of entree, you get soup or juice, salad, a hot loaf of bread, and your choice of potato.

You can start your meal with a number of tasty appetizers, including escargot (which gets rave reviews), BBQ ribs, crab caps (mushroom caps stuffed with crab), fresh veggie or fruit platters, shrimp cocktail, raw oysters, and Madison Avenue's house recipe, baked Oysters Madison. If you have room, try the excellent carrot cake or cheesecake for dessert.

At Madison Avenue you'll find a variety of featured items on the menu every day. In their lounge on Friday and Saturday nights, you can enjoy listening to a live piano bar, beginning at 8:30 p.m. with a special Happy Hour Buffet on Fridays from 5 to 7 p.m. Madison Avenue also has banquet facilities available for up to 150 people.

Forest preserve selected as grant recipient

Lyons Woods Forest Preserve near Beach Park will benefit greatly following the award of a $200,000 Open Space Land Acquisition and Development (OSLAD) grant by Gov. Edgar for restoration and improvement projects at the 266-acre preserve. The grant was announced by Jim LaBelle, forest preserve president, at the Feb. 17 board of commissioners meeting.

The grant will help fund development of 2.2 miles of hiking and biking trails, a comfort station, water fountain, parking lot and an entrance to the preserve along Blanchard Rd. The new trail and parking lot at Lyons Woods will provide access to the existing North Shore Trail, a regional bike trail that runs north and south through the county.

The grant will help offset the estimated $400,000 project costs and will be matched with funds from the forest preserve 1993 bond referendum, in which voters approved $20 million for land preservation and $10 million for improvement and restoration of existing and new preserves.

As part of an effort to acquire and enhance forest preserve and park lands statewide, Gov. Edgar awarded more than $11.7 million in grants for 69 acquisition and development projects throughout the state in January. Lyons Woods was one of 54 development projects statewide selected for funding by $10.8 million in state OSLAD grants.

The location of trails and other improvements are located to protect the preserve's high quality natural resources. Restoration of prairie, savanna and wetland areas on the site, also are part of the Lyons Woods master plan approved in August 1994. Construction is scheduled to begin this summer.

Pets of the Week—Dignified and gentle

"Lilly" is a beautiful, dignified young lady that arrived on a cold Easter weekend with her little brood of babies. She's gentle and quiet and will be prove an easy adjustment to a caring home.

Call Assisi Animal Foundation at (815)455-9411 for an appointment to see this or many other wonderful pets. Remember that adult animals make wonderful pets, too, without going through the growing pains of puppy or kittenhood. # Special dog—special needs

"Jazmine" is a small, 35-pound Akita-shepherd mix. This 18month-old spayed female has a short, thick, gray-cream coat with black markings. An attractive dog, she has some special needs—she is shy at first but warms up quickly when she learns that she can trust you.

Jazmine is housebroken and prefers the company of adults. Once she gets to know you, she is affectionate and responsive and wants badly to please. A sensitive dog,

she needs a quiet home,

Summer School for the Arts seeks students

High school students from every region of the state who are interested in creative writing, movement and dance, music, theater or visual and media arts can apply now to the Illinois Summer School for the Arts (ISSA) for the 1995 summer session.

The ISSA is an innovative, two week, in-residence arts program for high school students held annually at Illinois State University, Normal, Ill. The 1995 summer session will be held July 16 to 29 and is open to students who will complete grades nine, 10 or 11 by June of 1995. Tuition is $375 and financial aid is available.

The ISSA is searching for creative high school artists who wish to have the opportunity of working with outstanding professional artists and teachers, investigating arts within an interdisciplinary curriculum, developing insight into several art forms, transforming ideas from one art form to another (theater to music, movement to visual art, etc.), as well as making friends with other talented students from across the state. The ISSA has been in operation since 1990 and since then has taught nearly 500 students from 63 counties in Illinois. "We're committed to developing the talents of as many of Illinois' gifted young artists as possible, and then sending them back to their communities to make a contribution at their schools and in their home towns," said ISSA Interim Executive Director Scott Walters.

Application materials are now available and must be submitted by March 15. Interested artists should call (309)438-7762 now to request application forms and specify the arts area in which they are interested. Applications can also be obtained by writing Scott Walters, ISSA, Campus Box 5600, Illinois State University, Normal, IL 61790-5600.

Architectural genius lives on in historian

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

The celebration of "a true original" came to Fox Lake in the form of a Frank Lloyd Wright look-alike who has been traveling around the world throughout the past 11 years.

Dr. Lyman Shepard, architectural historian from Oak Park, entertained and educated a crowd at the Fox Lake District Library on the life, from childhood to senior years, of the world-famous architect who was known to design buildings many years before their time.

Shepard wore attire just like the items Wright had designed himself. A slide presentation started with a photo and explanation about Wright.

Wright's mother was Anna Jones, and his father was William Russell Cary Wright. She was from Wales, and his dad came from the east coast.

Wright was born in the tiny Wisconsin town of Spring Green in the year 1860. His father had a number of different occupations including that of an attorney, a musician, a dance master as well as being involved in medicine. William Wright was also at one point a Baptist minister.

As of today, the Jones clan, on the mother's side, still reside in Spring Green, said Dr. Shepard.

Though he became world-renowned, many labeling him a genius, Wright had no high school diploma nor college degree. He did, however, enroll in several engineering courses.

While his gift to see into the future came from a higher echelon, Wright learned his craft as an apprentice from master architect Louis Sullivan.

Together Sullivan and Wright designed the Great Auditorium Complex.

Wright loved to combine art, music and architecture to come up with his own form of orchestration, much of which is believed to have been about a hundred years before its time.

Old Mill Creek plans to maintain nostalgia of early roots

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

When young Barbara Pope grew up among the farms of Newport Township, one of her favorite past times was to cross the dirt road known as Millburn Rd. to the Cashmore's house to play with Agnes and Ellen. Only 7 years old in 1914, she would run through the fields and play by the stream and never feel unsafe.

"We could never go anywhere," she said.

In the late 1920s a hunt club in Lake Forest found itself running out of room as the community began to grow. The wealthy families associated with the club came to the area west of today's tollway and south of Rte. 173, buying tracts of land and establishing estates. The annual fox hunt had found a new home and still exists today.

In those days the burgeoning Chicago suburbs did not matter in a place as remote as Lake County. For all Pope cared they were 1,000 miles away. She could not imagine a time when her childhood haunts might become a part of contiguous suburbia. What mattered was the creek was undisturbed, the fields were green, and she could play all day long without so much as seeing a sign of civilization. Life was simple. It was the kind of scene that inspired Mark Twain to write about the exploits of two young boys on the Mississippi. It was picturesque to the definition of the word.

As the years went by, Lake County became one of the fastest growing areas in the entire country, yet the area Pope knew as her playground managed to remain virtually untouched. In the late 1950s, her playground was named Old Mill Creek after a winding stream trickling through the area, even though the new village was already well known for having more horses than people.

As the members of the hunt club began to pass away, their children were not always interested in trying to upkeep a farm in a remote area of northern Illinois. The now late industrialist Tempel Smith purchased his first tract in 1959, while looking for a home for his beautiful Austrian Lippizan horses.

A year earlier, Smith and his wife, Esther, had brought back Lippizan horses, or 'dancing horses,' after a trip to Europe because they were awed by the animals' artfully graceful movements. The farm today keeps 70 of the rare horses for its summer performance season, the largest herd out of the 2,000 Lippizans worldwide.

Smith continued buying the tracts as they came up for sale, amassing land which eventually turned into a sizable farm—over 6,000 acres—and protected the open space for his beautiful horses to roam. The farm bought more of the tracts after Smith's death in 1980.

Though the area of the village has still remained primarily untouched even today, the surviving Smith family did not need a crystal ball to see their nostalgic farm would someday be enveloped by the suburban sprawl that was rapidly overtaking southern Lake County. The city was finally reaching its fingers out to the agricultural roots of northern Chicagoland and the foreseeable future now promised it would affect the farm.

So they could control how their land would someday be developed as opposed to individual developers being given cart blanche, Tempel Farms hired Lohan

Associates of Chicago, five years ago, to help draw up a land use plan for their farm, as well as the rest of the village. The village planning commission was heavily involved in the process, meeting two times a month, four or five hours at a time for nearly three years.

"In the mid 1980s, I suggested we put together a commission to begin planning for our village. But we knew then we could not afford it," said current Village President Paul

After Arlington Race Track burned down in 1985, horse racing mogul Richard Duchossois purchased the Rasmussen farm and considered rebuilding in Old Mill Creek. Duchossois worked local and state politicians to find his best deal and eventually rebuilt on site in Arlington Heights. Abbott Laboratories now owns that land but the threat of a negative-impacting major development was shocking enough for both village officials and Tempel Farms to know it was time to take control of their own destiny.

John LaMotte, then Chairman Paul Koppen and his planning commission forged a comprehensive land use plan designed to protect the integrity of open space long before development began. The plan was adopted during the summer of 1993. Shortly thereafter, a request for annexation by the historic district of Millburn was approved. Bands interested should send a CD or DAT along with a biography to 95 WILL Rock the Neighborhood, PO Box 659, Kenosha, Wis., 53141.—by CLAUDIA M. LENART

Stars appear at free home show

It's free admission and free parking to the Home Show at Harper College Expo Hall (Bldg. M), at the northeast corner of Roselle and Algonquin Roads in Palatine. The show, Feb. 24 through 26 features established, local tradesmen and contractors to help homeowners with their remodeling and repairs, and will be highlighted by celebrity TV guest speakers, Martin Yan of "Yan Can Cook," and Jim Wilson of "The Victory Garden."

Yan, the "jocular oriental gourmet," will demonstrate his wacky flare for exotic eats at two shows on Feb. 25 and on Feb. 26 he will offer a special treat to the audience with a unique and tasty oriental brunch at 11 a.m.

Wilson, host of the southern n version of "The Victory Garden," will take the stage on Feb. 26 for two appearances. Wilson, who has more than 35 years experience in the agriculture business, and has written several gardening books, will offer tips for growers and pickers to assist them in preparation for spring plantings.

Program on selecting trees, shrubs to be offered

"What are the best plants to use in my yard?" This is one of the most frequently asked gardening questions. It is also one of the most difficult to answer. Several factors determine which plant is best for a particular landscape, and too often homeowners haven't taken those factors into consideration.

The University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service in Lake County is offering two programs to help homeowners select the right trees and shrubs for their landscapes. Selecting Trees will be offered Saturday, Feb. 25 from 10 a.m. to noon. This program will teach homeowners how to select the proper trees for their landscape. A wide variety of trees (including evergreens) will be discussed. The program includes a slide presentation of the trees discussed.

Shrubs for Illinois Gardens will be offered on Saturday, March 4 from 10 a.m. to noon. The focus will be on selecting shrubs for the landscape. A number of deciduous and evergreen shrubs will be covered. Slides will be used to present the shrubs discussed in the program.

New and established homeowners alike will find these programs useful. Both programs will be held at the Lake County Unit Extension office located at 100 S. Hwy. 45 in Grayslake. The programs will be conducted by Sharon Yiesla, Horticulture Educator with the Cooperative Extension Service in Lake County.

There is no fee for these programs, but registration is required as seating is limited.

Call the Lake County Extension office at 223-8627 to find out the availability of these classes.

We're mad as hell

I read an interesting commentary in The New Yorker magazine recently, and it made me think: Actually, the fact that I was thinking is also interesting, but that's another subject.

And if you're wondering why the heck I read The New Yorker when I live in Lake County, Illinois, well, I hate to admit it, but I'm a sucker for a good deal. Having subscribed to two magazines via Publisher's Clearinghouse (hoping to collect that $10,000,000 they promised was just a postage stamp awayexcept something must have gone wrong, since all I got was magazines), I soon began to receive mail from every magazine in the entire free world asking me to subscribe. The New Yorker had the cheapest deal, and budgetminded person that I am, I thought, why not?

New Yorkers are up to!

Where was I? Oh, yes-the commentary. Anyway, what this gentleman was saying is that Americans are forming opinions and expressing their views on just about every subject, regardless of whether they know anything about it (of course, that's just his opinion). He used foreign aid as an example, and this was the interesting part (trust me - it is). According to a recent survey, 75 percent of Americans believe that the United States spends too much on foreign aid. Folks were also asked how big a share of the federal budget is actually spent on foreign aid. The average answer was 18 percent. When these people were asked (without knowing the correct answer) how much foreign-aid was appropriate, the average answer was 5%. Want to know the correct answer? Let's see what those crazy Me, too. The answer is less than 1 percent. So, according to the survey, though people claim to want foreign aid cuts, the government is actually spending less than most folks would say is appropriate. In other words, people are angry, and they're saying so, but they don't know their squeezably soft Charmin from their Scott

Now, I don't know about you. but I haven't a clue as to what the exact figures and percentages are for the Federal budget, and I normally don't know any more about how much they spend on foreign aid than I do on how much they spent to study how fast ketchup flows out of a bottle (I do know that Heinz is the slowest - they could have saved money if they had just asked me). So maybe, instead of blaming people for giving uninformed opinions, we should be blaming the pollsters for asking us questions without first providing us with the facts. Instead of asking a loaded, trick question, they could have said, "The Federal government spends 1 percent of the budget on foreign aid. Is that too much?" My answer probably would have been "No". Or, "We just spent one million dollars on a ketchup study." To which we might have replied, "What? Are you nuts?"

Good Food—— Cheer up with Maine lobster

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

If you're starting to feel the winter blues around the dining table, cheer up, March is National Frozen Food Month. That means it's a great time to take advantage of the convenience and freshness that comes from cooking frozen Maine lobster products.

As warm weather approaches and thoughts turn to slimmer days ahead, the health conscious will be glad to know that Maine lobster is lower in fats, calories and cholesterol than the skinless white meat of chicken or turkey. Maine lobster also contains omega-3, a substance that is believed to reduce the risk of heart

For those evenings when you want to splurge, however, try the following recipe.

Lobster in Whiskey Cream Sauce and the control of t

1 stick butter

2 diced scallions, use top green parts

1 tablespoon minced garlic

salt and pepper to taste

3/4 cup whiskey/bourbon/ cognac or brandy

1/4 cup white wine

1/2 pint heavy cream

1/2 cup grated cheese

1/2 pound Maine lobster meat, fresh or frozen

Thaw lobster meat if frozen.

Sauté scallions and garlic in butter, add salt and pepper. Add whiskey and flame (light on fire with a match) until flame goes out. Add wine. Reduce to one half by boiling. Add cream. Simmer until thick, about 15 minutes. Add lobster meat and heat through. Serve over toast, rice, noodles or in a pastry shell.

Movie Pick-'Quick and Dead' lives too long

Just because Clint Eastwood's dark western, "The Unforgiven" was such an award-winning hit, doesn't mean that all the western's that follow, with a mean Gene Hackman, and lots of quality kills, will automatically be classed in the same classic category.

This is very evident in "The Quick and the Dead," Hackman's latest vehicle which allows him to again be the dictator of a small western town ready to kill all challengers to that title.

And the challengers come one by one, gunfighters of all ages, some as young as Leonardo DeCaprio (who did so well in "Gilbert Grape"), and some as beautiful as Sharon Stone.

The lackluster story reminds us of "Groundhog Day" when the same day gets repeated over and over again.

In "Quick" a gunslinger shows up to fight Hackman, shows off a little, and then bang he's dead, and it starts all over again.

Stone proves she is beautiful, can wear tight leather pants well, can't act, and should learn to keep her hair out of her eyes when participating in a gunfight.

Unlike the dark and somber "Unforgiven," there is some humor in the fatal goings-on in "Quick," which does add to what little enjoyment there is in it.

Actually, in retrospect, it wasn't as bad as one might expect from reading the above opinions. Director Sam Leoni treats this like one of Eastwood's old spagnetti westerns—and that ain't all bad— and we do get to see a flash from just about every western ever made, from "Stagecoach," to "High Noon," with just a few of "Blazing Saddles," type chuckles, but not its hilarity.

Sharon Stone, center, arrives in town to challenge Gene Hackman to a gunfight to the death in "The Quick and the Dead."

We suggest you wait for it to come out on video if you want your money's worth, rating it a 2.5 out of five stars. "Quick" is rated R because of nudity, language and violence.-by GLORIA DAVIS

-Horoscope-

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Distractions could interfere with the accomplishment of some of your plans. However, later in the week, you'll hear good news about a career or financial matter that's been on the back burn-

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You will find yourself waiting for someone to get back to you before you're able to plan a pleasure outing. Even so, the week will be fun. Romance is highlighted this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) The week could begin on a lackadaisical note, but the weekend favors entertaining household guests. Some of these could come from far away. You'll feel inspired now about a career venture.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Perhaps the other party isn't really listening. However, the signals you're giving could easily be misinterpreted. Make a better effort to communicate more effectively. Pleasure outings are on tap this weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Make sure you get proper remuneration for services rendered. You could do some major shopping for the home and family now. The weekend brings you happy news which is very welcome at this time. Before acting on this, do some planning.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Some pleasure plans will be up in the air, and it's not the greatest week for accomplishments.

However, you are wonderful at expressing yourself. This charm takes you into the weekend on a happy note.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) It seems you'll have to read between the lines to understand where others are coming from. However, you are more than up to the task. This week, you'll have a tendency to procrastinate. Catch up over the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)Don't feel obligated to have company over if you're not up to it. You need to pay more attention to your health by resting and eating properly. Plans involving travel are subject to change now. Good news comes from a friend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It will take a while for you to put the pieces of your puzzle together about a career concern, but by week's end, you'll experience an important breakthrough. Someone close to you can help with this.

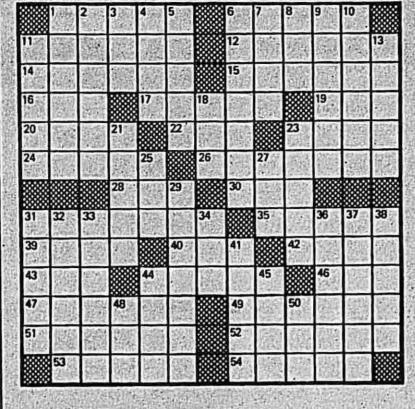

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) People are free to believe in what they want, but you certainly won't go along with the outlandish notions of a certain person you meet this week. Your popularity soars this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You could change your mind more than once this week about an investment or financial concern. Be careful not to misplace a credit card or bank statement. Career developments are quite positive right now, leading to more financial security.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's one thing after another to prevent couples from sharing quality time together this week. The weekend, however, is a different story. Make plans for an unexpected getaway.

'Rogue Warrior' authors on tour

Bestselling authors Richard Marcinko and John Weisman will be signing books at the Great Lakes Navy Exchange, Burkey Mall, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Wednesday, March 1.

Richard Marcinko

Marcinko and Weisman coauthored "Rogue Warrior" which hit the top of the New York Times bestseller list. "Rogue Warrior" is the action-filled real life story of Navy SEAL Marcinko.

Marcinko's 30-year Navy

He didn't like basements or attics, and preferred lots of windows and simple lines in his dwellings.

In his career, Wright designed over 1,000 buildings, and was even the designer of the very first ranch home. His was called "Usonia." Wright also designed the very first air conditioned building

Wright was "always struggling against the odds," said Dr. Shepard. He described the architectural giant as "eccentric and exotic," and wealthy in terms of his great artistry.

Wright's life story continues with his first wife, Catherine or "Kitty" as she was known, and their six children.

After being married for many years he eventually divorced her. While still married, he had a torrid love affair with Mamah Borthwick Chancy. She was later murdered by a psychotic servant, who then set his home on fire.

After each of his set backs, Wright picked himself up and carried on, continuing his creation of what would be famous works of architecture.

Wright went on to meet and marry Miriam whom he had a seventh child with, and later divorced. He then met another woman which he lived with named Olgivanna.

His two eldest children, Lloyd and John both followed in their father's footsteps. Wright's granddaughter Ann Baxter went on to become an actress.

Playing the character he has been doing for over a decade, Dr. Shepard explained in the words of the eccentric, sometimes arrogant talent, "The world came to me,". after the architectural era began to change.

Among his works are the Winslow House, built in the late 1800s, in which he first began melding nature with his buildings; the Chancy House, which he modified against his ideas for the owner, an electrical engineer; and the famous Imperial Hotel in Japan which was rebuilt.

> The Hotel Nikko in downtown Chicago was also designed by Wright.

Wright died in his hometown in Spring Green at the age of 92.

career self-destructed when the Navy decided he did his job too well, according to his book publicist. At the Navy's behest, he had created Red Cell, a top secret unit of the military's most accomplished anti-terrorists who were unleashed on the Navy's own facilities in order to test their terrorist resistant capabilities which proved to be nonexistent.

The Navy spent five years and $60 million in an attempt to prove Marcinko stole $118,000. Marcinko was eventually convicted on one count of conspiracy. "Rogue Warrior" tells Marcinko's tale. His second book "Rogue Warrior II" was his first novel with him as the hero and it also hit the bestseller list.

"Rogue Warrior: Green Team" is the latest novel by the writing team. A screenplay of "Rogue Warrior' is currently in the works.

Play proves Shakespeare is for the ages

"Troilus and Cressida's" roots go back to Homer and Chaucer. Modernized by William Shakespeare in 1601, the tale of love and war, hope and folly takes on a contemporary sheen while adhering to the poetic language of its day.

And in the hands of Shakespeare Repertory Chicago's Ruth Page Theater, play director Barbara Gaines once again proves that Shakespeare is for the ages.

The stage comes alive with an exceptional cast of 26. Michael Philippi's scenic design, abetted by Kenneth Posner's masterful lighting, effectively transports viewers to the walls of ancient Troy, where the now-restless from the grinding mills that used to stand along the creek, joined the village in order to help protect its historic character.

With Tempel Farms as the financier, Old Mill Creek has achieved a goal that most villages can only complete after uncontrolled building has already begun.

"We are very pleased with the comprehensive plan and the village will be a coveted area in the whole county," said Koppen, who has lived on 20 fenced-in acres in the village since 1960.

The comprehensive plan assures the future village of Old Mill Creek a chance to be carefully directed from its developmental inception. The plan calls for a greenbelt of 1,500 acres primarily following the creek along with horse farms, golf courses, trails, a mix of housing densities, corporate campuses and shops. The village may grow from its present population of 150 to as high as 16,000 people in the next 30 years, Bob Neal, the Lake County board member presiding over the district including Old Mill Creek, applauds the village's actions.

"The village has done an exceptional job of combining the private sector, the planning agency and the public sector in creating a plan. They kept their heads on straight when no one was looking to develop. They put a village on paper while they still have control of the future," Neal said.

Pope, currently on the Village Board of Trustees, is not pleased with the advent of development but feels comfortable with the plan in place to help keep growth in check.

Tempel Farms, which still owns over 4,000 acres, says it has no plans to sell any property in the foreseeable future. The difficulty in staying with this lofty goal is rising taxes and economic factors beyond its control. The other issue is there is always a high enough price that just cannot be turned down. Pope is one who understands this reality.

"Many of us who have been around a long time would like to see it stay the same, but we can't expect the Smith family to maintain it forever. It is just not practical. We are doing the best we possibly can." Pope said.

If things remain as Pope and the village have planned, there will indeed be signs of civilization, but the creek will still be undisturbed, the fields will still be green, and Old Mill Creek can be remembered as a playground by all the little girls in the future.

Greeks have laid siege for some seven years.

Howard Witt commentates on the action and plays Panderus, who unites his niece Cressida (the fetching Deborah Staples) in a love match with the handsome Trojan soldier, Troilus (Robert Petkoff), though the two are destined to be parted by the war.

Their affair is only a subplot. The main story revolves around how the Trojans and Greeks are to end their long-standing dispute that's now at a standstill. Both sides have grown weary of the war precipitated by Paris (Ed Bevan) of Troy's abduction of Helen (Kate Walsh), the wife of Menclaus (Duane Sharp), the brother to the Greek King Agamemnon (John Malloy).

The Greek's best warrior, Achilles (Bruce Young), has had his fill of fighting and prefers to rest on his laurels, so Ulysses (Greg Vinkler) tries to stir Achilles' jealousy by naming Ajax (Daniel Allar), a lumbering behemoth, as the army's new hero.

"Troilus and Cressida" will run through March 5. The theater is at 1016 N. Dearborn, Chicago. Ticket information is available at (312)642-2273.-by WITOM

SBA streamlining assistance

WASHINGTON—The administrator of the U.S. Small Business Administration has said he will continue ongoing efforts to streamline the agency so that it can meet rising demand for its critical small business assistance programs at a lower cost to taxpayers. Testifying before the Senate Small Business Committee, Philip Lader outlined broad efforts already undertaken by the agency to make its programs more responsive to small business needs and still contribute to overall federal deficit reduction. Despite a 25 percent reduction in staff size from 1980 to 1994, the SBA has more than doubled the amount of financing and credit assistance to small businesses and continued to meet increasing demands for education and training, for advocacy on behalf of small businesses and for disaster loans.

Ameritech urges competition

WAUKEGAN—Ameritech has announced its endorsement in large part of the rules proposed by Ill. Commerce Commission hearing examiners for full local communications competition, clearing the way for prompt action at both the state and federal level to give customers more choice for both their local and long distance calling. Within 45 days of a Commission decision, Ameritech would unbundle its local communications network, making it available to competitors who seek to provide local ser-

VERNON HILLS—Eddie Bauer has announced that it will open an Eddie Bauer Home Store in the Hawthorne Center in mid-May. Washington-based Eddie Bauer Inc. is a wholly owned subsidiary of Spiegel, Inc., and is a specialty retailer of private label clothing, accessories and home furnishings for the casual lifestyle. Combined retail and catalog sales for the company exceeded $1 billion in 1994. Cindy Black, Eddie Bauer district manager, points out that since its inception in 1991, Eddie Bauer Home has grown to 17 stores nationwide and six catalogs annually.

Ski shop tops in poll

VERNON HILLS—A national poll has named Spoke & Ski specialty stores in Park Ridge and Vernon Hills as one of the top 50 ski shops in America, according to Snow Country and Snow Country Business Magazines. Citing exceptional customer service and superior knowledge of the sport, readers of the magazine chose Spoke & Ski as the best shop in the Chicago suburban area. While more than 900 shops were nominated in the poll, only two in the Chicagoland area were named.

THIS WEEK Chicago Sea Ray buys Munson Marine

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

A longtime marina in the Volo area has taken on a new name, and is now under the authority of a world-wide boat dealership.

A 30-foot craft is up on display atop a huge sign along Rte. 12 at the former Munson Marine site. Chicago Sea Ray purchased the marina last month, along with Skipper Bud's Marina which has locations in Fox Lake and Wisconsin.

"We are proud to welcome Chicago Sea Ray to the Sea Ray family, " said Jack Swan, senior vice president of sales and marketing for Sea Ray Boats, Inc. in Knoxville, Tennessee.

"Chicago Sea Ray is affiliated with Skipper Bud's in Wisconsin, one of the best Sea Ray dealers in the world. With a history of maintaining their highest Customer Satisfaction Index in the Midwest, they long ago established the reputation as a customer-driven dealership. There is no doubt that Chicago Sea Ray will provide the same customer focus and make customer satisfaction the cornerstone of their business," Swan stated.

Sea Ray is a division of the Lake Forest-based Brunswick Corporation, which serves worldwide markets in marine power, pleasure boating, recreation, and defense/aerospace. The company's stock is traded on the New York, Tokyo, London, Midwest and Pacific Stock Exchanges.

Sea Ray was founded in 1959 and is the world's largest manufacturer of pleasure boats.

According to Autschbach, vice president of sales for Chicago Sea Ray, there are fifteen other marinas the company owns. Among these are a site in Alton, near St. Louis; one in East Peoria; a large marina in Racine called the "Reef Point;" and one in Sheboygan which was built for the city.

Another big marina built by Sea Ray is the one Winthrop Harbor called the "North Point Marina." Autschbach noted this is the largest in the country and is built by the state with 1,500 boat slips along Lake Michigan. There are all types of vessels there, from 18-footers to 80-foot yachts.

Sea Ray often designs marinas for municipalities as well as privately, said Autschbach. One was done just last year in Phoenix, Arizona.

The new location near Volo, actually located within the Lakemoor village limits, will meet the claim of "more than just selling boats," according to Autschbach. They will also service the water craft as well.

The business also keeps your boat high and dry during those months it's not in use. "Between Sheboygan and Chicago, we store over 2,000 boats," Autschbach.

The owners of Chicago Sca Ray who just purchased the Rte. 12 Munson store are Michael and David Pretasky who serve as president and vice president respectively, along Ellerbrock.

Change is name only for two local banks

JENNIFER WHISENAND

Staff Reporter

There might be a change on the outside in signage and a small change in the brochures, but on inside the business has not changed.

Two Lake County Banks decided a change in name to Grand National would make sense and help one another in the long run.

"The banks were sister banks under Northern Illinois Financial Mark Corporation," said Brennan, assistant vice president of Grand National Bank. "Having Grand National as the bank's name would be easier to expand later on, rather than having a bank with a town name in it," he added.

The merger of the two banks was effective Jan. 16, but when people see change, they automatically think the worst, stated Brennan.

The two banks and their branches were Crystal Lake, Crystal Lake South, Island Lake, Mundelein and Wauconda.

The banks merged to save each other money in advertising and many other aspects of running a small community bank.

One positive change Grand National Bank members will see is more locations and more ATM machines they can use, stated Brennan.

During the week of the grand opening, there were trips and shopping sprees given away.

A trip to the Grand Bahama Island was won by Debbie Verraros of Crystal Lake, a trip to the Grand Geneva Resort in Wisconsin was won by Sue Kelderhouse of Island Lake and a $300 Shopping Spree to the mall of choice was won by Evelyn Syens of Wauconda.

The new bank also had daily winners of $50 bonds at each location, with a total of 25 bond handed out over the week.

Slowdown expected in auto sales

The auto industry is about to downshift from overdrive, bringing the Midwest economy and The First Chicago-Great Lakes Index (GLI) back to reality in the process.

According to Diane Swonk, senior regional economist with The First National Bank of Chicago, total sales of autos. and light trucks in 1995 are expected to drop 2 percent from 1994's rate of 15.1 million. And the GLI is expected to slow to 3 percent growth in the first quarter and 2 percent in the second quarter.

The GLI, designed by First Chicago, measures the total output of goods and services within the five-state region of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin. The auto and light truck industry plays a key role in the economy of the Great Lakes and its red-hot pace late in 1994 pushed the GLI ahead 7.2 percent in 1994's fourth quarter.

"Consumer demand for vehicles has slowed because of both higher interest rates and more consumer debt," Swonk said. "Even the incentives auto makers are starting to offer won't keep demand at late-1994 levels. Dealers already report that showroom traffic is down."

Swonk explained that payments on adjustable-rate mortgages and credit cards will be rising just as deferred billing from Christmas spending is due.

In addition, new-vehicle demand will be hurt by the more than two million leased vehicles that are expected to be returned to dealer lots in 1995. As the dealers price the cars to sell, some consumers will find that the twoor three-year-old cars are affordable substitutes for new cars. Meanwhile, the supply of the used cars will drive down the value of trade-ins, making it harder for consumers to afford new cars.

Even so, a projected 14.8 million new vehicles will be sold during 1995. And that will be a strong year, especially for domestic auto makers who won't have to deal with the exchange-rate price pressure that the imports face.

Credentials can be important

The time has come for you to select a professional sales agent to help you buy or sell a home. Besides a good personal referral from a satisfied friend, there are some important questions to

Most people spend more time on planning a family picnic than on the selection of the person that can really serve their needs. We are inclined to invest a little more time hiring accountants. attorneys or pediatricians and seem to-need a little direction on the selection criteria for the company, agent and marketing plan that suits their style and expectations.

A seller may need to interview at least three agents to select the one best suited to their needs. The selection should not be on the highest pricing range to offer the property, but on several other important

 What educational credentials do the agents have? Besides the educational benefits, a seller should consider the professional affiliations the agent can tap into to multi-level marketing of themselves and the properties they have in inventory.

High level exposure through affiliations like the Women's Council of Realtors and the Residential Sales Council offer high networking opportunities which provides recognition and interaction that-can lead to more sales. Look for designation credentials like GRI (Graduate of the Real Estate Institute), or CRB (Certified Residential Broker).

 The number of years in the real estate field is an important question to have answered. The industry suffers from frequent turnover within the 30-percent range on an annual basis. When an agent has at least three years' experience, they have managed to get through the toughest part.

An excellent question is "How many properties do you sell on an annual basis?" A successful agent will have a resume of information to familiarize you with their personal accomplishments, along with their personal philosophy on their career goals.

 Have the agent explain their marketing strategy to market your. particular property. Ask to have certain facets in writing so that it is very clear what you expect, and the agent intends to provide. If you are expecting a weekly open house, this is the time to clarify the agent's intentions for marketing exposure. The agent and his/her company have statistics on the response factors, and are confident of where the best responses are generated from.

There are a list of 20 questions developed by The Sanford Systems that are quite good at helping the consumer ask the right questions to effect the outcome that is right for them. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Terri Murphy, P.O. Box 6234, Libertyville, IL 60048, for your free copy.

Melissa A. Valinsky and William F. Bach both of Prospect Heights have demonstrated professional competency by successfully completing the Certified Arborist examinations administered through the International Society Arboriculture (ISA) and the Illinois Chapter of the ISA. The purpose of the ISA Certification program is to improve the level of knowledge and standard of practice within the tree care profession. It is designed to assist the public in identifying those professionals in arboriculture who have demonstrated, through a professionally developed examination and education program, a thorough knowledge of tree care practice. The ISA program tests and certifies an individual's knowledge in the field of arboriculture. Poul's Landscaping, Inc., Long Grove, strives to keep it's employees abreast of all the latest technical improvements in the tree care profession and encourages individual professional tree care development.

Time for goodbye

I read the article regarding Chief Policky In Hainesville. There were some Items missing that I'd like to clarify. When you get a traffic ticket, there are six copies: two to the motorist, two to the records department of the police department; and two to the circuit court. If tickets have come up missing, it would seem to me that Chief Policky would be solely responsible because the tickets for the circuit court are dropped into a collection box and transmitted to the court. So if every copy of the ticket has disappeared, it's apparent that the problem is at the administrative level and It was time for Mr. Policky to say goodbye.

Road trip

In a recent article about the Fox Lake Fire Department's "light" truck helping neighbors, I don't think Chicago can be called neighbors. They refer to us as 'burbs or boonles, or other words. I can't believe the Fox Lake Fire Department headed by Chlef Stu Hoehne and his son Ron would take a $225,000 vehicle paid for by the local taxpayers into the city of Chicago for any reasons. According to the article, all the benefits this truck embellishes to be used in time of emergency were not available to the village of Fox Lake or to the township of Grant in the event of an emergency situation. While tooling down the highway toward the Daley Center, I wonder if the chief gave any thought to the possibility that we, the citizens and taxpayers, may have had need for the special lights or air compressors, including the "jaws of life" to extract someone from a crashed vehicle on Rte. 12 or Rollins Rd. Well, chief, thanks for your thoughtfulness...NOTI This area is growing and those of us who have grown with it have a need for our officials and employees to act more responsibly.

Especially those who are charged with life safety. Stu, you left us, hanging by the thumbs. Thanks for the article, Tina, keep up the good

What's going on?

Cable TV...hey, what's going on, I thought I lived in America. I've got cable TV and there's about five programs in Spanish. On one program there was a girl dancing with a thong on. Having the remote handy, I switched the program. But what If I wasn't there? The kids would have seen this. Just what is this country coming to? #### Recess no fun

Instead of sending your kids to Hawthorn School, why don't you just send them to prison because that's how these kids are treated. These so-called recess mothers who do nothing to begin with, stand around all day with megaphones and walkle-talkles screaming at your kids at recess and lunchtime, when that is the time these kids should be able to unwind and relax.

It's about time

I want to thank the person who opened up the Pandora's Box regarding Hawthorn District Schools. It's about time people knew what really goes on there. If people want to know how their kids are treated, volunteer your time and you'll be shocked. I think it's time to see the dark side of Hawthorn, It's not what it's cracked up to be.

Get out and vote

When I read in your column every week about the school bond issues and people are so upset, all you have to do is get out and vote no against it. If you don't vote, or if you vote for it, then you don't have the right to complain. It seems that the only people that care are Antioch residents, who vote all the referendums down. So, If you don't want more taxes taken out, get out and vote! I wonder if the legislature would ever pass a bill where the parents would be responsible for the property taxes for the schools? How much griping would you see then? Do you think the parents would say, we want our wonderful education for our kids? No, they would say, why do we have to pay the taxes for schools? I'm single and unmarried and never was married. Why do I have to pay for school taxes? Why do senior citizens have to pay? Let the parents pay for school taxes!

Unsafe bus driver

This week's Fox Lake Press had an article titled 'Teen Charged After Passing School Bus', A few months ago, my friend was on Forest Ave. when a bus driver put her arm out. the window and waived traffic around It. It was the same driver involved in this incident and he called the school to complain, It was four years ago when his nephews were killed when a truck passed a Fox Lake bus and the driver sald she never heard or saw the accident. How does the school board live with the fact that children are being killed and endangered by their bus drivers? Do they sleep at night? How long will it be before another child dies and everyone walks away scot-free? Joe and Howle Hanson may not have mattered to Fox Lake School District, but they were loved by many people who will never, ever . be the same. When my friend called to complain, what did the school do? I bet you don't print this, Fox Lake Press, you're a very one-sided newspaper.

Need opinions

I recently moved to the Fox Lake area and I was wondering if I could hear from some of the other parents of children in District 114 on their opinion of the school system. I've heard good and bad, but I'd. like to get a more broad opinion. If you have any thoughts, let me know

Hiding figures

Questions to the Lake Villa Unit District gang of 10. Why has the gang of 10 refused to present facts and figures to Lake VIIIa Assessor Kathleen Kane? This hiding of figures from the assessor is a blatant attempt to keep increased costs to property owners from them; through no fault of Kathleen Kane's. The gang has tried to silence cost increases until after the April 4 referendum. Apparently, the gang is hoping the electorate will not notice that they're voting on a blank check that the gang can fill in after the referendum.

Not kicked out

I'm calling in regard to the article about Mark Reinstein In Feb. 17 Lipservice. He was not kicked out of any school negotiations. That is legally impossible for any school board to do. Mr. Reinstein voluntarlly stepped down because of a family health crisis with a life-threatening Illness, which is in keeping with the caring and responsible Individual that he is. As for the individual that called in regarding the contract for Round Lake schools and pay for the teachers, I'm so glad this idlot doesn't teach math in our schools. He is apparently under the assumption that everybody works a seven-day week. How he can get 30 weekdays out of a month, I have no Idea. Monday through Friday is five days. There are four and 1/3 weeks in a month. Even if you rounded it off, we're talking 22 days a month. I live in an unincorporated part of the Round Lake school district and wish the school board and administration that they appointed began to seriously honor their legal commitments and not pursue their own political demagoguery.

For the better?

Wake up, Waucondal I Just receive a campaign letter from the United Party of Wauconda. They must be kidding. They're trying to bring their dog and pony show to a local restaurant at the end of February looking for campaign contributions. The mayor would like us to believe that these people are running for the better of the village. I think the mayor is working real hard to retain control of the board. If these people running are so good, why do we need Mayor Eschenbach and former mayor Ken McGIII to shove them down our throats? Think about It, Wauconda, this is not space sciencel

Figures incorrect

I'm calling in response to 'Deal with It.' Your calculations are incorrect. If you divided 180 school days by a 30-day month, you would be attending school every day of the month. Therefore, your month's employment total is also not correct. It's a pity you didn't have the adequate education to figure out the problem.

Speak up

I'm responding to the caller disappointed by the forums for Slocum Lake's future. The caller doesn't want to hear people complaining about flooding, but the pollutants and contaminants carried by the flood and storm water lead to the degradation of the lake. The quality of the lake cannot be improved unless we control what flows into the lake. The concept of a water shed is extremely important to good lake management. We are not professionals. I would encourage the caller to approach someone at the forum or someone on the committees and make suggestions for speakers rather than complain about it on the gossip page. We're just a few people trying to do the work of many and would appreciate any suggestions a person may have. We're trying to start at the beginning, usually the best place to start.

Sunbathing OK

I'm responding to 'Pornography In schools.' I do not consider topless sunbathing to be pornography. Our bodies are not dirty. By making a big deal out of non-sexual nudity, we are teaching our children to be ashamed of their bodies. Children are naturally curious about nudity, but once they realize that we all have the same things, they understand It's no blg deal. If you take your children to any museum, they'll see full frontal nudity. It's not bad, It's beautiful art. This country is so hung up about breasts, that women can't even nurse their children in public without people becoming embarrassed. I doubt the children were traumatized by nude sunbathers.

Fit replacement?

So the police chief in Hainesville quits because he's fixing tickets. Who do they put in charge but the overweight sergeant who shot himself on a call. What is Hainesville coming to? I can't believe it!

Take note, mayor

For the mayor of Fox Lake, take notice. You might make a hit here. I think you read where the newspaper said Dominick's was sold and that they would be building 10 more new stores. Don't you think maybe getting in touch with him to see if he'd like to settle in our town would be a good idea? Or we might just change the name of Fox. Lake to the Ghost of Fox Lake. Lakeland is starting to look like a glant tombstone.

Voluntary recycling

I find it funny at how we have to pay for recycling in Round Lake Beach. One night I was sitting at the public building off of Hart Road and watched the village not recycle. They're throwing milk bottles, cardboard, newspaper. and garbage all mixed together in the dumpsters. Why is it that the people of the community have to recycle, but the people who make the rules do not? There's something wrong here, wouldn't you agree?

Point of correction

To the person who wrote that thousands of bables are waiting to be adopted, you almost had it right. Thousands of couples are waiting to adopt.

How To Survive The Job Search By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: I have been unemployed for approximately seven months. I had recently received a job offer from (name withheld) where I would be doing customer service and data entry. The company offered a good salary and benefits which I needed as I am about to become a single parent. I accepted the job to start two weeks later with a contingency pending their background check as they called it. My problem is that I was contacted a few days later by the person who hired me asking me once again if I had graduated high school from the school that I claimed to have graduated from on my application. I answered yes. She then told me that she would get back to me. I heard back within the next hour that I was pulled from their position. They stated that I misrepresented myself by claiming on my application to have graduated from high school. While I told the person that I received a G.E.D. (general education diploma), they asked me to provide proof of it that day. I told her that I was busy with other things right now and that I would bring it with me the day I started my job. The offer stood and showed up for work the next day. I forgot to bring in the cer-tificate and I was terminated before I was even shown my desk. Isn't this discrimination? I can't believe that a piece of paper should determine whether or not a person has a job held over their head. What do you think? S.H. - Waukegan

A: Dear S.H. Do not think for one minute that this has anything to do with a piece of paper or a discrimination of any sort. This is an "honesty" issue...or "dishonesty" as the case may be. You have not provided accurate information on your application for employment, which in itself would be grounds for termination with any company and furthermore, when you were questioned a second time by the company, you promised to comply with the contingency of providing your certificate to them for which they trusted you a second time and you did not. Maybe you do have the G.E.D. you claim to have...maybe not. In any case, the company was in no way discriminating against you personally. Their standard hiring policy is a high school diploma or G.E.D. equivalency is mandatory, the company will not (and is not required to) hire anyone without either. My suggestion is not to blame them because after reading your story that would be an exercise in futility. Save your energy for either digging up that piece of paper, getting a duplicate copy...or just getting your built-in entertainment center, sit back and enjoy.

If you are searching for a multifaceted house plan, one where you can work at home, entertain riends in grand style and have plenty of space for family activities, the 2485 square foot Willamette should be high on your list.

From the moment you step into the recessed foyer, you will see that this is no ordinary house. The first thing to catch your eye, and set the tone for the rest of the plan; is a beautiful water display from your own fountain.

The luxuries continue with a huge, isolated master suite. The vaulted ceiling of the sleeping area s dotted with skylights for a starlit view. Other amenities include a spacious walk-in closet, two separate half-baths that share a center shower, linen storage and private access to the spa on the back patio. A modest home office, perfect for keeping up with household accounts on your PC, completes the left wing of the home.

The large living room/dining room area, with coffered vault, comprise the central section. A built-in woodstove, backing the fountain, assures plenty of warmth. The one of a kind kitchen has it all. Here a central cooktop allows the cook to prepare and serve meals with ease. Additional features include a mixing center, double ovens, eating bar and walk-in pantry. Meals may be served in the dining room in a formal setting or buffet style. The skylit nook, with a view on three sides, is a great place for the family to start the day together. Entertaining your guests in style is easy in the family room/theater. Pop the latest video into your

Across from the theater are two good-sized bedrooms. These rooms will work well for overnight visitors or older children living at home. A small utility room accesses directly into the garage. Housed here are a central vacuum system, solar hot water system and shop.

For extra storage space area or later development, there are 597 square feet of attic space. For a study kit of the WILLAMETTE (404-04), send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 P60, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name & number). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark.

Edsing Your Tax Burden

Several options to consider for free tax help

Have you called the IRS toll-free number to get answers to your questions, only to hear a busy signal? The hours for our toll-free 1(800)829-1040 number for personal assistance have been extended, but because millions of people are trying to call at the same time, it may take you awhile to get through.

Let me offer you some suggestions. Avoid calling our toil-free number during our peak hours. Instead, call us later in the week— Wednesdays, Thursdays, or Fridaysand either early or late in the day. We're now open weekdays from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for your convenience.

There are also several other options you should consider, which may help you get tax advice quicker and not a busy signal.

First, check the information provided in the tax package you received in the mail. Many times you can answer most of your questions by reading the tax form instructions or one of our many free tax publications. You can pick up many of the common forms and publications at local IRS offices, as well as at many banks, post offices, and libraries. You can also call 1(800)829-3676 to order any other forms or publications you may need.

Tax assistance is available in most IRS offices. We provide self-help Instruction by gulding you through the preparation of your tax return.

If you are looking for general Information on a tax topic, you may call our toll free Tele-Tax phone line, 24-hours a day, seven-days a week to hear prerecorded tax messages. By calling 1(800)829-4477 you can get Information on over 140 topics with information about everything from IRS procedures, filing requirements, and tax credits to electronic filing. A listing of Tele-Tax topics can be found in your tax form instruction booklet.

Later in the filing season, this same Tele-Tax number will allow you to check on the status of your refund. Have a copy of your tax return handy since you will need to know the primary social security number shown on your return, the filing status, and the exact dollar amount of your anticipated refund. You should wait at least four weeks after filling your tax return before calling to check on your refund. Refund Information is updated once a week.

Free help with preparation of basic tax returns is also available in many communities from volunteers who have received IRS training. These tax sites, known as VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) and TCE (Tax Counseling for the Elderly) sites, are set up to help the elderly and lower income taxpayers in their own community. Some sites also provide free electronic filling. Call toll-free 1(800)829-1040 to find the site nearest you.

Hearing-Impaired taxpayers who have access to TDD equipment may get help by calling the IRS toll-free at 1(800)829-4059. If you have trouble reading fine print, you can order large print forms and instructions by calling toll-free 1(800)829-3676.

For more information on free tax help, look inside your tax form instruction booklet.-by MARILYN DAY, district director, Internal Revenue Service, Chicago District

Mustangs coast by Carmel; Rams seek 2nd regional title

Carmel at Mundelein

Date: Feb. 28

Time: 7:30 p.m.

Team records before final week: No. 1 seed Mundelein (16-9, 11-4); No. 16 Carmel (5-19, 3-9).

Key players: Carmel's Mike Graham, Mike Malone and Dan Graham. Mundelein's Sean Stackhouse, Brian McMahon and Ivan Hourruitiner.

Keys to game: Don't let Mundelein's record fool you. An eligibility fluke stripped the Mustangs of their first five victories. They are clearly one of the best teams in the county. Carmel, however, has also sparked of as of late and could surprise. But unfortunately for Carmel, it looks as though this may be the final game of the year for the Corsairs.

Prediction: Mundelein by 12.

Lake Zurich at Antioch Date: Feb. 28

Time: 7:30 p.m.

Team records: No. 8 seed Antioch (13-11, 6-9); No. 9 seed

Lake Zurich (13-10, 9-4). Key Players: Lake Zurich's Jon Gifford, Jim Roberts, Pat DeVito and Randy Witt. Antioch's Eric and Kevin Eckenstahler, Adam Becker, Kevin Geraghty and Eric Campbell.

Keys to game: Although both come from separate conferences, both teams have had the privilege of playing each other and feeling each other out. Lake Zurich may be better prepared the second time in the Antioch gym. Lake Zurich is one of the area's best shooting clubs and boasts a bench which could score in the double digits 6 or 7 deep. Antioch could cancel out Lake Zurich's shooters with Becker and Geraghty. Antioch's big edge is the two Eckenstabler brothers on the inside.

Prediction: Antioch comes from behind again to win by 5.

Grant at Warren

Date: Feb, 28

Game time: 7:30 p.m. Team records: No. 3 Warren (11-4, 17-7); No. 13 Grant (9-5,12-12)

Key players: Warren's Joe Bongratz, Luke Moo and Maurice Foster. Grant's Mike Nelson, Dave Stone, Paul Nortaino.

Keys to game: Grant showed

MHS to tip off March Madness

The Class AA boys basketball post-season 1995 version will actually begin the last day of February.

That is when first-round games will be held in the first round of the Waukegan sectional tourney. March Madness is the official title of the IHSA tourney which concludes at the University of Illinois March 17-18.

Mundelein is the top seed of the 16 and will host No. 16 Carmel at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 28.

Other Tuesday games include:

No. 9 Lake Zurich at No. 8 Antioch; No. 13 Grant at No. 4 Warren High and 12th seed Round Lake is at No. 5 Highland Park.

Grayslake, which made it to the sectional last year, opens as the seventh seed and battles No. 10 Waukegan at 7:30 p.m. March 1 at home.

Stevenson, the 14th seed, hopes to give Zion-Benton a run for its money as it visits the third seeded Zee-Bees.

Libertyville, the 11th seed but a hot team of late and with tourney history success, is at No. 6 Lake Forest.

The other Wednesday game has No. 15 North Chicago at No. 2 Deerfield.

As was expected, Stevenson walked away with the sectional semifinal against Carmel 76-30. If there is any consolation, Carmel did keep it close until the final three minutes of the first quarter. After that, it was all Stevenson.

For Stevenson Coach Frank Mattucci, the victory had special meaning as it was his 200th career victory coaching girls high school basketball and his 98th win with Stevenson. The Lady Patriots racked up their 28th win of the season to go along with two losses, and the Patriots have been averaging more than 24 wins a year since Mattucci came aboard four years ago. . .

"Number one it's a testimony to the young people you have who believe in your system," said Mattucci, referring to sophomore Tamika Catchings, and juniors Tauja Catchings and Katie Coleman. The fearsome threesome poured on 61 points for the Patriots against Carmel.

After building a 7-1 lead early in the first quarter, Carmel battled back behind Colleen Krombach (11 points) and Amy Kocsis (10 points) to shave the lead to 9-7 with 3:30 left in the first quarter.

"I thought we had them early. They've got some great ball players," Carmel Coach Larry Whittier said. "I did not come into this gym thinking we were going to lose."

Stevenson then went on a 13-0 scoring drive to close out the first period. Tamika Catchings (29 points) sparked the charge with 8 points and Coleman (20 points) swished a three-pointer with 42 seconds left.

After Erin Potempa (8 points) opened the second quarter with a power hoop, Stevenson's Noelle Medenwaldt answered with a bucket. For the remainder of the quarter, it was the Tamika-Coleman show as the Patriots entered intermission with a comfortable 39-13 lead. If Tamika wasn't grabbing a rebound, she was hitting a three-pointer or scrambling for a loose ball.

"Each game she shows you something different. What makes her so special is that she works so hard ... How many superstars do you see dive for the ball," Mattucci said Tamika Catchings.

Besides an impressive offensive showing, Stevenson also frustrates its opponents with a stiff full-court pressure, but Carmel point guard Jamie McGill See PATS page C22

Foresters spoil Carroll's plans, end third in division

Playing the role of spoiler was the goal of Lake Forest College men's

Garroll College needed a win Saturday against Lake Forest to gain the coveted second spot in the Midwestern College Conference divi-LFC spoiled those plans with a 79-71 win.

"That was a big game and kept Carroll out of the playoffs. We played the best half we have played all year," LFC Coach Ed Timm said.

The Foresters found themselves trailing 40-33 at halftime but rallied to gain third place in the conference.

Jermaine Williams scorched the nets for 27 points. Ryan Hynes had 16 points. Mike Roszak, the only senior on the team and playing in his last LFC game, had 14 points.

LFC finished the year 12-10, 6-8 Midwest Conference. LFC was third in the North Division, but only the top two move on. See SPOIL page C22

IHSA suspends team dual meet; LHS team furious

Wrestling teams, parents and officials were either en route or present for Tuesday's Class AA dual team meet at Johnsburg High when they found locked doors. The Illinois High School Association suspended the meet while the state organization is in a legal battle with Mt. Carmel High.

The move to suspend the meets which came after 5 p.m. does not sit well in the least with Libertyville High's team.

"IHSA made a big mistake by canceling the meet. I understand that they are investigating the mess, but they waited too long. They should have held the meet then postponed the rest," LHS Coach Dale Eggert said. Mt. Carmel is challenging Libertyville, Conant and others on use of junior varsity teams in tournaments.

"Don Robinson (IHSA) called us two weeks ago and asked for our schedules and contracts. We received a letter Feb. 10 thanking us for our cooperation and said in no way was their any evidence of bylaw violations,' Tim Albers, LHS athletic director, said.

Wauconda High told LHS the Wildcats could use a junior varsity team in its tournament and the contract was written as such, Elbers said.

"We cleared it with the state and they (Mt.

Carmel) did not," Eggert said.

Mt. Carmel won an injunction in court, delaying the dual meet which was to conclude at Illinois State University Feb. 25. The Class A state meet is not impacted.

Will the tourney be resumed?

Elbers said Wednesday this is unlikely, since spring sports start Feb. 27.

"If they tell us to show up, we will. But if it takes two weeks, it will be hard to hold a team's attention," Eggert said.

LHS was 18-5 in dual meets and scheduled to face Waukegan. Hersey and McHenry also had qualified.

championship. The Lady Corsairs did just that by downing Antioch 40-36.

After a shaky start, the Corsairs extended a nine-game winning streak by celebrating a regional championship title, and one by one each player was granted the privilege of cutting the net.

"It's just a great feeling to win a regional championship with this group of girls," said Carmel Coach Larry Whittier. "It's a credit to all of these girls."

The Lady Corsairs used their rebounding strength and defensive pressure to dominate in the first half. Carmel out rebounded Antioch 32-15 and forced 19 turnovers.

"That was one of the keys in terms of rebounding," Whittier said.

Erin Potempa (13 points) sparked Carmel early when she converted a steal into two points. Colleen Krombach (10 points) followed suit with a rebound and basket, and Jamie McGill was able to intercept an Antioch inbound pass and hit the lay-up.

Potempa and Krombach worked another 6-point spurt, as Carmel led 12-7 after the first eight minutes: The same duo led the charge in the second quarter. Courtney Smith came off the bench with a minute to go in the half and nailed the final bucket at the buzzer as the Corsairs entered the locker room with a 26-13 halftime advantage.

"Intensity and consistency-that's what we talked about before the game," Whittier said.

In the second half, the Corsairs may have lost some of that intensity as the Sequoits were able to whittle away at the lead and even show signs of pulling out an upset. credited Antioch's Whittier defense.

"I think we ran out of gas in the second half," said Whittier, as Antioch held Potempa and Krombach to one field goal a piece in the second half.

Dana Pierson (13 points) and Rachel Hauser (10 points) came out strong in the second half for Antioch.

Pierson converted a threepoint play to start the fourth quarter, and she and Hauser went on to hit jumpers to close the gap 31-28 early in the fourth.

"Rachel really stepped up for us in the second half, and we were running set plays for Dana until they caught on," said Antioch Coach Dave Woods.

He added, "I really think if we play Carmel 10 times, we would beat them five times and they would beat us five times. That's how evenly matched we are."

Nevertheless, Carmel's Amy Kocsis came off the bench in the second half and provided the second wind Carmel needed to maintain the lead. She scored all 5 of her points in the second half. She sunk two freethrows with a 1:25 left to play to build a 39-32 lead and to seal the victory.

"When she's on a role, she's great," Whittier said of her junior Potempa ended the scoring for Carmel on the line, hitting one of two.

"It feels great. I love my team," Potempa said. "This has been one of the funnest team's I've played on. We all hang out together, and I think that's why we've had a lot of our success."

The Corsairs were celebrating their regional championship until they squared off against No. 1 Stevenson Monday in the sectional semifinal. "That's the reward for the program," Whittier said.

Carmel boys hold on to beat Loyola

There is just something about non-conference basketball games which bring out the best in Carmel High's boys team.

The Corsairs registered their second non-East Suburban Catholic Conference win in a month with a thrilling 63-61 over Loyola Saturday in Mundelein.

"We are starting to play a lot better. We hit our free throws at the end," Carmel Coach Ben Berg said.

Eric Ames scaled the win with 9 seconds left and Chris Carroll had a pair earlier as Carmel finished 18-of-23 from the charity stripe. "One of our strengths this season has been free-throw shooting. We are about 70 percent and that is pretty good for a high school team," Berg said.

Mike Graham led the way with 20 points, 12 coming in a third quarter stretch which saw Carmel

"He started to go to the free-throw line made and that has increased his points from 10 to 12 to 18 to 20. He creates more opportunities off screens and the other players are understanding the motion offense," Berg said.

Carmel, which improved to 5-19 overall with the win, also had senior Jason Wegener in double figures with 12 points and Carroll had 10.

Carmel started the fourth period with a 10-point lead but the Ramblers rallied to within one.

"We never gave them good looks at the basket. Our poise in the fourth quarter was the key," Berg

Turning in good defensive efforts included Ames on Loyola's leading scorer, Mike and Dan Graham and Bill Koch.

Carmel had downed Wheeling earlier in nonleague play.

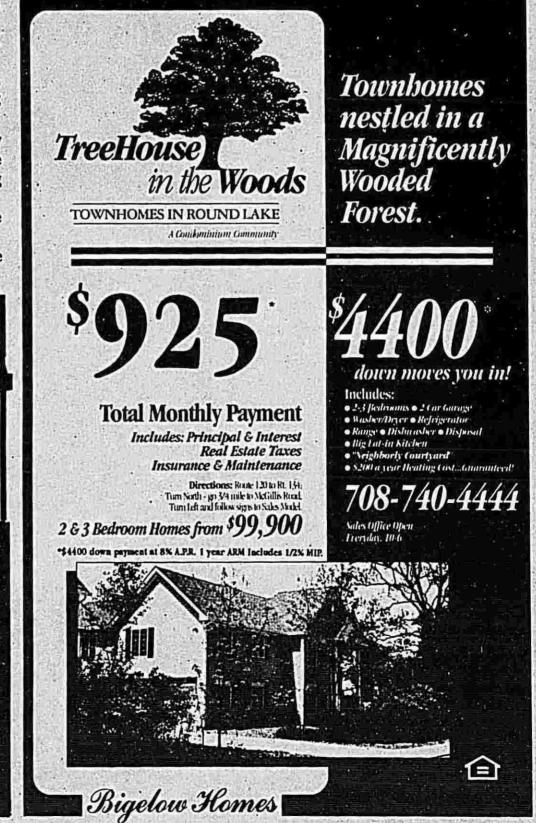

Carmel had its typical no-luck in an ESCC loss to Notre Dame, 68-61. The Corsairs fell to 3-9 in ESCC

"We hit a stretch in the third quarter when they turned a 3-point lead to an 11-point lead and we could not play catchup against a good team," Berg said.

Mike Graham led CHS with 14 points, Mike Malone had 12 and Dan Graham had 10.

was able to break the press for the most part.

"I think that was one of the things we did well, and that's a credit to her (McGill)," Whittier said.

In the third quarter, Stevenson opened up another 21-0 run to put the game out of reach. Trish DeClark drove to the hoop for a nice underhand layup with a 1 minute remaining. In the fourth quarter, Mattucci cleared his bench to give his reserves ample playing time.

"I got them (starters) out of there because I didn't want to see anyone get hurt," Mattuci

"We doubled our number of wins over last year and had our first winning season in 10 years. We have everybody back except Roszak," Timm said.

Williams, a Carmel High graduate, led the Foresters in scoring by averaging 18 points a game.

Ben Bongratz, a Warren Township High grad, led the team in rebounding with 9.5 a game. He averaged 10 points as did Mike Ansani and Roszak.

The Foresters fell at conference playoff qualifier Ripon 71-53. Williams had 12 and Ansani had 10 points.

Following the win over Carroll in Waukesha, the Foresters could look back on what if.

Former Bear Hoge leads Youth Camp

Merril Hoge is back. For the third year, Hoge is proud to announce he will be holding his youth instructional football camp. The program is for boys ages eight through 18, and features top instruction from the Chicago Bears and top college coaches.

"There needs to be more camps like the Merril Hoge Football Camp. I attended a camp similar to Merril's when I was growing up and I believe in such 'a program," Pittsburgh Steeler Head Coach Bill Cowher said.

"I am very excited about being in Chicago working with the Chicago Bears again. Our goal is to teach the boys a lot of football while having a great time. Our main goal is to send each boy home a better citizen or person with a more positive outlook on life. We try to teach them that football is not the ultimate end of life," Hoge said.

Hoge's (overnight and day) program will be held at North Central College, Naperville, June 18 through 23.

Chicago - Bears that will instruct at the camp include Steve Walsh, Erik Kramer, Lewis Tillman, Chris Zorich, Trace Armstrong, Mark Carrier, Joe Cain, Jerry Fontenot, Curtis Conway, Chris Gedney, Jeff Graham, Raymont Harris, Tom Myslinski and many more. Merril Hoge will be at the camp 24 hours a day.

said. Amy Chaness and Carolyn Roth were both credited with 4 points a piece in the period.

For Carmel, the Lady Corsairs ended their banner year 19-10. Carmel started out the year losing 6 of its first 8 games, but Whittier credited Potempa for the turnaround.

"After the Warren game, Erin changed her style of play. She distributed the ball more, and the rest is history. She is a very unselfish player," said Whittier, whose team's nine-game winning streak came to halt in the season-ending finale.

"I told Frank (Mattucci) after the game that I hope we got beat by the state champions," Whittier said.

As for Mattucci, his Patriots will square off against Libertyville in the sectional championship Thursday in another showdown between the two rival schools.

Hanlin leads Lancers with strong show in home finale

Seeking to go out with a good showing in their final home game was the goal for College of Lake County men's basketball team's sopho-

Led by Justin Hanlin, the Lancers did just that in a 74-65 win over McHenry. The win gave CLC a ,.500 Skyway Conference record, 5-5.

Hanlin, a Warren Township High grad, scored 24 points to lead the Lancers.

'He had two three-pointers, several jump shots and a couple of layups," CLC Coach Bruce Smith said.

Ramsey Williams also played a good game with 12 points.

Both are averaging about 10 points a game.

CLC had 10 point lead most of the first half and led 37-29 at halftime. They outscored the Scots 37-36 in the second 20 minutes.

Mike Rudd of Libertyville had a pair of three-pointers for 7 points. Ronzeyl Newsome had a trey as well.

CLC had a hot night from the foul line, making 23-of-26 free throws. Manuel Stutts led the way with 7-of-8 for his 9 points:

CLC concluded the regular season at 12-16 with a 90-69 loss to Triton in the Wilson Challenge.

Kelan Williams came off the bench for 13 points.

"They had a stretch where they outscored us 20-2 over five or six minutes," Smith said.

The Lancers battled Skyway Conference champ Elgin in the first round of the Region IV tourney Tuesday.
